ETLING GETS TWO YEARS
FOR ALTERING
TAX RECORDS

Former Chief Deputy As-essor Found Guilty by Jury and Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

ASSESSMENT OF TAXPAYER CUT

Witness Testifies He Paid
Defendant $60 for Reduction of Levy on His Property.

William P. Etling, former Chief Deputy Assessor, was convicted of altering public records, a form of larceny, by a jury in Circuit Judge Taylor's court this afternoon, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. This is the first conviction growing out of the tax assessment reduction scandal discovered at City Hall late in 1923.

The punishment fixed was the minimum, the possible maximum being seven years. It was largely the word of a taxpayer that Etling accepted a bribe to reduce his tax assessment, against the word of Etling that he did not take it, and never had taken as much as a dollar, in the trial, which began yesterday. The jury accepted the taxpayer's word, seemingly.

Motion for New Trial.

Etling showed signs of surprise
when he heard the verdict, which was reached by the jury in less than two hours' deliberation. A motion for a new trial was filed and Etling
was released on bond, pending court action on the motion.

Taxpayer's Testimony.

Charles Enger of 5207 Lansdowne avenue is the taxpayer. He testified that he gave Etling $60 at the Assessor's office at City Hall in July, 1923, for reducing the assessment on property of his at 1424 California avenue from $8000
to $2200.

Enger declared he had known Etling for 17 years. Once in 1920,
at city hall, he averred, Etling tapped him on the shoulder and said: "I'll split 50-50 for what I put off on your tax bill." Enger asserted he paid no attention to that offer, but that when such an offer was repeated in July, 1923,
he accepted. That time, he declared, Etling said to him: "I can make a $125 reduction in your taxes if you give me $60." The Counsel for Etling, cross examining Enger, inquired if Enger had been convicted of selling impure
milk, when in the dairy business.
Enger denied this and his protestations became extremely heated.

All you were interested in, about my assessment, was cheating the State, wasn't it?" the defense lawyer asked.

"No, what I was interested in
was in keeping Etling from cheating me," the witness retorted.

Enger declared that Etling's daughter had visited his home and suggested that he say he didn't know Etling or his superior, from Assessor Buder.

Rolling Bars Testimony.

An effort by the State to introduce testimony of Henry Zeiss of 1413 South Broadway, whose assessment Etling is charged with reducing also, was prevented by a ruling of the Court.

Former Assessor Buder testified that Etling had no authority to make changes in assessments. Oscar P. Seeshinghaus, chief clerk in the Assessor's office, on cross examination, said that the assessment records were open to the public, indicating the possibility that they could be changed by some one not connected with the office. He declared also that clerical errors frequently occur in the work in the office. John H. Gerring, a clerk in the office, testified that the original entry of the Enger assessment was made by him,
but not the reduced figure.

Etling's testimony yesterday was almost entirely devoted to a denial that he accepted the $60 or any one else for making an assessment reduction. He asserted he never had accepted any gratuity while in office. Contradicting a statement by Enger, he said he had known Enger for only four years. Etling, who is 56 years old and resides at the Dover place, was employed in the Assessor's office for 20 years.

A number of character witnesses testified in Etling's behalf, including Vernon R. C. Lacey, attorney and one-time Democratic candidate for Mayor.

That was the startling assertion of Steve Nichols, proprietor of the

When the officer recovered from

"Oh, they were German bonds,"

Vital Statistics Records Made Public in Connection With Case of Mrs. Geisenovik.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics were made public today showing that 44 babies died in two "baby farms" conducted by Mrs. Helen Auguste Geisenovik in this city since 1918. Mrs. Geisenovik is being held in $26,000 bail on charges of neglect from investigation of the institution.

The records of the deaths were turned over to Assistant District Attorney Ryan.

The bodies of two babies are being exhumed today to determine the causes of their death after they had been in the woman's "baby
farm" in East Eighty-sixth street.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics
figures show that one baby died
each year from 1918 to 1920 in a so-called infantum, which was conducted in Upper Park avenue.
Six babies died in this institution in 1921 and five in 1922. The records for the East Eighty-sixth street institution show that nine infants died there in 1923 and 17
died in 1924, while four have died since last Jan. 1.

C. G. HALEY APPOINTED WEIGHTS INSPECTOR

Resignations of All Non-Classified Employees of Building Department
Called for by Brod.

Director of Public Utilities Wall
today appointed as his successor as Water Commissioner John C.
Pritchard, effective tomorrow. Director Wall was Commissioner until his recent selection as a member of the Board of Public Service by Mayor Miller.

Pritchard, a civil engineer, has been in the supply and purifying
section of the Water Department since 1910 and of late has been assistant division engineer in charge of the construction of the new Missouri River waterworks.
His annual salary will be increased from $4500 to $7000. During the war he was overseas as Captain in the Engineers' Corps. He resides at 4912 Buckingham court. In making the appointment the director passed over Assistant Water Commissioner Francis T. Cutts.

New Weights Inspector.

Director of Public Safety Brod
today announced the appointment effective June 1 of Clifford G. Haley as Inspector Weights and Measures, succeeding Edward H.
Schlomann, who has held the position for eight years, supported Louis P. Albe in the Republican primary, while states were original supporter of Mayor Miller in the Twenty-second Ward.

Haley now is an inspector in the water assessment division at $150
a month. He resides at 4554 A.
Garfield avenue.

Resignations of all nonclassified employees in the Building Department have been requested. Director Brod announced. They include
William C. E. Becker, Building
Commissioner, at $2400 a year;
Robert Gordon Snook, Commissioner, at $1000, and Miss Maude McKelvey, stenographer-clerk, at $150 a month, who is a daughter of James N. McKelvey, former Director of Public Safety.

Rumors as to Jobs.

The resignations have been requested, as of June 1, does not mean that they will be reappointed, Brod said, but he refused to say who would and who would not be reappointed. Rumors that Brod would not be reappointed followed a conference today of Mayor Miller, Director Brod and Edward B.
Christopher, who has been chief architect in the bridge and building division for the last four years at $4250 a year, and for the previous four years was architect for the City Plan Commission.

He is a graduate of Washington University and a member of the St.
Louis chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and resided at 6025 Etzel avenue. Brod refused to say whether Christopher was suggested for the commissioner-ship.

Director Brod has supervision
over the Fire Department, and rumors have been current at the city hall that Fire Chief William G.
Panzer may be succeeded by District Chief Charles Alt, a cousin of Postmaster Louis Alt. The chief's salary is $3000 and the district
chief's is $2000.

Charles Alt joined the Fire Department in 1895, at which time he gave his age as 30 and his former occupation as bookmaker. He was promoted to captain in 1908 and to District Chief in 1919. He resides at 3732 Arkansas avenue.

Change in Janitors Soon.

A change in the janitor situation
at city hall and Municipal Courts Building is in prospect. The Municipal Research Bureau has enclosed an alleged lack of efficiency on their part, and the Board of Estimates and Apportionment intends to take care of 60 janitors for the two buildings. Instead of $4,000, as heretofore, today, Director Brod said he had requested the resignations of all janitors, effective June 1, leaving him at liberty to reappoint some of them and to appoint others. It is understood that most of the janitors, who are negroes, supported Albe against Miller in the Republican majority primary.

CALLED HER POETRY
"POLYPHONIC PROSE"

Sister of Harvard President
—Said Average Woman
Was Not Intended for Intellectual Life.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., May 13.—
Miss Amy Lowell, the poet, and sister of President Lowell of Harvard University, died suddenly at her home here yesterday. A paralytic stroke which came without warning, was the cause of death.
She was 51 years old.

Miss Lowell was taken ill suddenly at her home on April 11, and was obliged to cancel a projected trip to Europe. The illness, the recurrence of an old complaint, was said at that time to be not dangerous. A statement issued at that time by her secretary, said that there was no immediate danger, but that the patient was being carefully watched.

The poetry of Amy Lowell and her position in contemporary literature have been the subjects of much argument, but little has been written about Amy Lowell, the woman.

First Poem in 1912.

Miss Lowell was born Feb. 9, 1874, in Brookline, Mass., suburb of Boston. Her parents were Augustus and Katherine Bigelow
Lawrence Lowell. She was a cousin of James Russell Lowell. The wealth amassed by earlier generations of the Lowell family gave Miss Amy Lowell all cultural advantages. She had no need to work for a living and was in her thirties before she determined to devote herself to poetry.

Her first book of poems, "A Dome of Many-Colored Glass," was published in 1912 and contained only the germ of the new form of poetry, which was called "polyphonic
prose" and "cadenced verse."

In 1914 she published "Sword Blades and Poppy Seed," and in that volume Miss Lowell began to employ so-called "vers libre" and to write in the forms which she herself described as "polyphonic

High Rank as Critic.

At the time of her death, while there were still many who disagreed with some of her theories,
there were few who disputed her eminence as a contemporary literature critic. There were a few, in England particularly, who accorded to her the rank of greatest contemporary American poet.

She also held high place as a critic. Two volumes of her criticisms, "Sixty-Four Poets" and "Tendancies in Modern American Poetry" have been called models of their kind.

In her latest work, a two-volume biography of John Keats, published this year, Miss Lowell invaded a new field of literary endeavor with great credit to herself. Critics were unanimous in their praise of the clear picture she gave of the young English poet and of the sympathetic and tender light in which she portrayed Keats' sweetheart, Fanny Brawne.

Her Views of Women.

Though Miss Lowell never married she was an advocate of a career for women at the sacrifice of marriage and family life.

"I most emphatically believe that the woman of the future must be another woman."

POLICE SEEK PERSONS WHO WERE WITH DR. DILLON AT PARTY NIGHT OF MURDER

Who Has Seen
A Stunning Blonde?

DR. DILLON was with "a stunning-looking blonde"
on the night when he was murdered, a woman witness in the Coroner's inquest declared yesterday. The police are desirous of finding the blonde or any other of the persons who, according to the witness, were with the party.

The witness, Mrs. Nettie Beckerle, said she saw Dr. Dillon at some time before 11 p.
m. April 30, at an entertainment in the Egyptian Building in University City. She said he was with two other men
and two women, and that the woman who seemed to be particularly in his company was
"a stunning-looking blonde,"
about 5 feet, 6 inches tall,
about 39 years old, and wearing a black-and-white or gray-
and-white gown and large picture hat. The other woman she said, was shorter, heavier and dark. The blonde seemed to be receiving most of the attention from all three men. Mrs. Beckerle recalled that the blonde stumbled on a step and Dr. Dillon caught her. The party was at the building about a half-hour, Mrs. Beckerle said, and all, including Dr. Dillon, drove away in a sedan about 11.

TWO WITNESSES IDENTIFY YOUNG DILLON AT INQUEST

Loan Shop Proprietor and Newspaper Vender, of 18 to Testify, Recognize Slain Doctor's Son.

FOUR SAW "A YOUNG FELLOW" ON TRAIN

Former Assistant Manager of Fairmont Hotel Says He "Listened in" to Hear Threatening Remarks.

Of 15 witnesses heard in yesterday's five-hour session of the reopened Dillon inquest at Coroner Bopp's underground establishment in Kirkwood, only two accusers centering directly on young Dillon. These were Ab Wolfson, loan shop proprietor of Lawrence, Kan., who testified that he saw Dillon, a 38-caliber revolver between 9 and 10 a. m. April 29, the day before the murder; and Bartholomew Barth, 21 years old, new paper vender at Delmar boulevard and Hamilton avenue, who testified that he saw Dillon in a candy store at that corner about 2 p. m. April 30.

Other witnesses made statements which would have appeared significant if they had been accompanied by an identification, but they were not able to identify Dillon.

Had seen Dillon in Lawrence. W. R. Green, hardware dealer of Lawrence, testified that he and his clerk sold $1.10 worth of 38-caliber cartridges, the morning of April 29, to a young man who wanted them to fit a revolver. The revolver was like the one which Wolfson, whose shop is next door to the hardware store, sold to Dillon. Green could not identify Dillon as the purchaser. He had seen Dillon's face before, but that was all he could be sure of. As Dillon had been loitering about Lawrence much of the time since he left his classroom work in Kansas University, March 7, it would not be strange that Green should have seen him. It also appeared that the shells sold by Green, while they would have fitted the revolver sold by Wolfson, would also have fitted other revolvers of various makes.

The flagman and negro porter of the Missouri Pacific train which left Union Station at 12:30 a. m. May 1, both told of seeing "a young fellow" in the smoking car, but they could not identify Dillon. Their train was one of two which might have been used by anyone going from St. Louis to Lawrence between the time of the murder, assumed to be about 11 p. m. April 30, and the time when young Dillon was seen in Lawrence, mid-evening of May 1. The other train on a similar schedule is the Alton-Burlington "Night Hawk," leaving Union Station at 11:55 p. m.

Saw a Young Man on Train. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grandias of 5452 Vera avenue told of being passengers on a Washburn train from Kansas City to St. Louis the night of May 1, and of hearing a young man tell a girl that he would like to come into some money, and that he would introduce her to his mother. The witnesses did not believe, after viewing Dillon, that he was the young man. He came from Kansas City to St. Louis that night, but has not told what train he took.

Other testimony covered ground previously traversed, with little bearing on young Dillon. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Reid testified to seeing an automobile at the Fairmont Hotel, Reid told of seeing a man near the Pennsylvania avenue gate of Francis Field shortly after 11 p. m. April 30, as they drove to their home on Forsyth boulevard. Fred Volk, of 1011 Lindell boulevard, told of seeing an automobile in the same place and hearing three shots. Employees of Washington University repeated the statements they made at the first session of the inquest, as to hearing shots and seeing an automobile.

Tells of Threatening Remarks. Patrolman Elmer Wessler, former assistant manager of the Fairmont Hotel, told of threatening remarks made to him by a telephone conversation last year, on which he "listened in" at Dillon's request. The remarks were made by a person who the physician said was his son, and who answered the telephone when Wessler called up Mrs. Dillon's home for Dr. Dillon. Mary E. McClure, night telephone operator at the same hotel, told of calls for Dr. Dillon on the night he was killed, and said he was in the hotel for a few minutes about 9:45 o'clock that night.

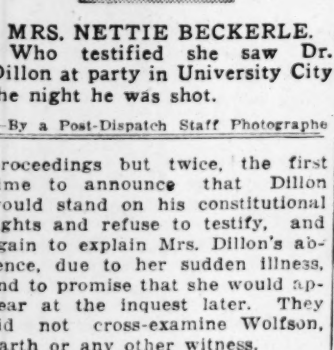

Little information was obtained from Clara Geringer, maid in Mrs. Dillon's home, who was questioned by the coroner and by Circuit Attorney Sidney of St. Louis. She hesitated over her answers, and was sharply questioned as to any coaching or warnings she might have had, but she said Mrs. Dillon had told her to tell the truth. She said she had not seen young Dillon at home between his visit at Easter and the time of his arrival after his father's death.

Dillon's lawyers interrupted the against the two proprietors of the saloon for having the revolvers on the premises without the required permit. They are George Huck and William Burley.

A test today showed that either of the two revolvers found in St. Louis would hold a 38 long black powder cartridge, such as the one found near Dr. Dillon's body. The bullet taken from his head was of 38 caliber, and identical in weight with the nose of the cartridge found near the body.

The report of the finding of a revolver under a railroad trestle was investigated yesterday, while the coroner's inquest was in progress. It developed that a 38 Colt was found last Friday near the Washburn track and Hamilton avenue by Pressley Linne of 3811 Delmar boulevard. He sold it to the proprietor of a soft-drink stand.

The police have examined it and decided that it has no connection, so far as can now be determined, with the case. The 38 barrel is on a 41 frame.

woman who accompanied her, were clear.

Noticed Dillon Wore Glasses. Mrs. Beckerle is a stenographer in a downtown law office and a night student in Benton College of Law. She said she had known Dr. Dillon several years, and that she noticed that he was wearing glasses. His glasses were in place when his body was found.

She said, as fixing the time, that she and other students left the law school, 2830 Delmar boulevard, at closing time, 9:30 p. m., and went by automobile to the Egyptian Building, arriving there about 10, and remaining until a little after 11. One of the women in the party looked at her watch about 11 and they remained thereafter for one more dance. She said Dillon and his companions left in a closed automobile shortly before her departure.

At yesterday's showing of the film, three acquaintances of Dr. Dillon said they were unable to distinguish him at any place in the film, but they were sure they saw a bald man, whose back was shown, but did not recognize this man as being Dillon.

Divorced Wife at Party. Mayor A. O. Cunningham of University City and his wife, who reared Mrs. Dillon, and knew Dillon for years, were at the Egyptian Building yesterday the night of April 29, but declared yesterday that they did not see him there. However, they pointed out that a large crowd was present. Mrs. Cunningham placing the number at 1800, and that it was possible for Dillon to have been there without being seen by her.

The physician's divorced wife, Mrs. Anna H. Dillon, speaking through Mrs. Cunningham yesterday, declared she did not see Dr. Dillon at the affair. Four University City men, who were active in the entertainment, and who were acquainted with Dr. Dillon, said they did not see him there.

The occasion at the Egyptian Building was the opening of the new radio station KEVE, of the new corporation of America, when open house was held. Mrs. Dillon had a prominent part in the affair, being "Queen of the Radio" on the program.

Mrs. Dillon will be asked to testify in the inquest before it is officially closed. Coroner Bopp said last evening. He said also that Edward Dillon would have another opportunity to make a statement. He refused yesterday to make a statement at the inquest, on the ground that it might tend to incriminate him. He has refused to tell where he was the night of the murder, or at any time between his departure from his boarding house in Lawrence, Kan., Monday, Tuesday, April 27 or 28, and his reappearance at the boarding house in mid-afternoon of May 1. Also he has refused to discuss the sale of a revolver to him at Lawrence the day before his father was murdered.

there about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Dowell, who is 25 years old, and lives at Spring avenue and 100 Tony street, declared he has known Dillon for five or six years, having met the boy at dances they had attended.

He related that he had been in a restaurant and on walking to the southeast corner of Hamilton and Delmar had seen Dillon coming from a drug store at that corner. Dillon, he said, wore a light gray overcoat. Dowell did not greet him, but recollected having seen him when he read of the murder. None of the employees of the drug store was able to recall seeing Dillon in the store. The employees based this statement on a photograph of Dillon, whom they do not know by sight.

Both Dowell and Barth, who sells papers on the northeast corner of Delmar and Hamilton, declare that Dillon was alone when they saw him. Barth testified at the inquest yesterday that he met Dillon in the candy store on the northeast corner, and talked casually with him. He, too, said that "Dillon wore a light overcoat. None of the employees of the candy store recalled seeing the youth in the place.

WELL DIGGERS STRIKE GOLD ON ILLINOIS DAIRY FARM. Deposit Found Near Belleville at Depth of 10 Feet Believed to Be of Small Value.

By digging a well on the dairy farm of the Safety First Milk Co., one-half mile north of Belleville on the Shiloh road, workmen yesterday afternoon came across a deposit of a bright mineral which was assayed by a jeweler as being gold.

The gold deposit was found at a depth of 16 feet from the surface in a layer of sand and gravel four inches thick. One of the workmen who spied the mineral took a quantity of it to a jeweler for a test.

An opinion was expressed, however, that the gold was so sparsely distributed in the sand that it would not be practical for mining.

HOW DR. DILLON GOT ONE $10,000 POLICY

Applied for Insurance After Name Had Been Sent to Company as a "Prospect."

The Post-Dispatch has learned that at least $10,000 of the $25,000 accident insurance, which Dr. Dillon carried, was taken out by him without any personal solicitation by agents. This $10,000 was insurance by the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Accident Association of America, home office, Utica, N. Y. This company has no agents and its policy holders are mostly traveling men.

The name of Edwin C. Brooks, publishers' representative, of 5430 Pershing avenue, appears on Dillon's application as having recommended this and told how it came about. Brooks himself is insured by the Commercial and occasionally lends in the names of his friends and acquaintances to the company as likely prospects. The only compensation for this is a souvenir button or card case.

Sent Name in as Prospect.

About the middle of last March Brooks sent in a list of 10 or 12 prospects to the company. Dillon being one. He received an acknowledgment from the company, but heard no more and was in doubt, until he read the newspaper, whether Dillon had taken out the policy before his death.

Upon receipt of Dr. Dillon's name, the company mailed him literature concerning their insurance. Dillon seemingly did not respond at once, for his application is dated April 12. The policy was issued to him April 22, eight days before he was murdered.

Brooks said he never discussed insurance with Dillon, and sent in Dillon's name on his own initiative. He saw Dillon a day or two before the murder, but the policy was not discussed. Brooks had known Dillon for years and described him as "a gentleman when sober; not so nice when drinking."

Reporter's Persistence Futile. "Since it is such a serious case," the reporter declared, "won't you state whether you were in St. Louis or not on April 30?"

"Really now," the youth protested deprecatingly, "I wish you'd not discuss any phase of the case. You see, I don't want to discuss it without first consulting my counsel."

HEARING IN HUSBAND'S SUIT TO OBTAIN BRIDE CONTINUED

Charles Bell Alleges Wife Was Unlawfully Deceived From Him by Her Parents.

The 18-year-old bride of Charles Bell, 25, who is trying by habeas corpus proceedings to get her from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Breslin, 2309 North Newstead avenue, was not brought to the Court of Appeals with them today when they appeared in answer to his writ.

Through counsel they stated that their daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Bell, was not brought into court because she was not in her custody. They declared she had never been unlawfully kept from her husband, as his petition set forth. An attempt to continue the hearing until next Tuesday was defeated by the plea of counsel for Bell that he was in distress, and the hearing will be held Friday.

Bell told a reporter that he and the former Miss Breslin eloped to Clayton on May 4, after a four-months' engagement. Her parents, he said, raised some objection to the marriage in respect to the bride's physical condition, which he refuted by a physician's examination. He declared that Breslin took the bride from an automobile in which she was sitting with a girl friend at Lindell boulevard and Kingshighway, and he had not been allowed to see her since. A suit to annul the marriage was filed by Breslin as "next friend" of Mrs. Bell before Bell applied for the writ.

Deputy Sheriff Petri, Meador and Ahrens recently raided the Kornalinski home and found 15 bottles of home brew, a half pint of moonshine liquor and three barrels of mash. The wife was alone at the time and was instructed to have her husband report in the county court on his return from the mine. Mrs. Kornalinski paid the fine from a large roll of paper money.

John Johnson, a negro, drew 99 days in jail from County Jail, Wever at Belleville on a charge of carrying concealed weapon. Johnson was arrested in East St. Louis when he alighted from an incoming freight train.

"How much did you pay for the pistol?" asked Judge Weber. Johnson grinned and said, "$6. The negro thanked Judge Weber when given the 90-day jail sentence.

DILLON SILENT ON EVERY PHASE OF CASE

"Nothing to Say," Reply to Reporter's Questions About His Whereabouts April 30.

Edward G. Dillon, who has been questioned in connection with the murder of his father, Dr. Dillon, today talked with a Post-Dispatch reporter at his mother's home, 726 Herman avenue, University City. He discussed any phase of the case.

"Really, I think it better not to answer that," or "Don't you think we had better not discuss it?" were his answers to every question touching even remotely on the case just as he uttered his reply to the questions put to him by policemen when interrogated at Clayton.

The youth had just arisen when the reporter arrived at 9 a. m., and entered the living room dressed in pajamas, over which he had thrown a dressing gown.

To Say Nothing. "No," he said, seating himself. "I think I have no statement to make. My procedure is just the same as it was—to say nothing."

"Can you tell me," he was asked, "whether you were in St. Louis the night your father was killed?" I am not asking you whether you were in Lawrence, or Kansas City, but whether you were here."

"Well," the youth hesitated gravely. "No," he said after a moment. "I really think I had better say nothing about it. I will say this, however, I have never been defiant in my answers to the police, as some of the papers have said. I have tried to make courteous reply to everything that has been asked me. My attitude has been just what it is now. It has been my policy not to talk unless I am advised to do so by my counsel. I think it is universally conceded that a man is entitled to counsel in cases of such a serious nature."

ANOTHER HOLDUP BY FREIGHT TRAIN ROBBER

Three Watchers and $300 in Cash Obtained From Three Nickel Plate Trains.

The freight train robber, "Jesse James," for whom police are searching St. Louis and East St. Louis last night, got away with his sixth robbery of a freight train near St. Louis since March 24.

A Nickel Plate freight train was running slowly between Edwardsville and Stalling, six miles south, when the robber hopped down from the tender and told the engineer and fireman to "put 'em up." He took their watches and money, and then, telling the engineer to "keep her moving," started back over the train to hold up the brakeman in the caboose. He got watches from all three trainmen and a total of about $200.

Each of his six robberies has netted him three railroad men's watches, worth generally between $50 and $100, and sometimes a considerable amount of "change." Railroad secret service departments are planning to place detectives on freight trains to trap him.

WELL DIGGERS STRIKE GOLD ON ILLINOIS DAIRY FARM

Deposit Found Near Belleville at Depth of 10 Feet Believed to Be of Small Value.

By digging a well on the dairy farm of the Safety First Milk Co., one-half mile north of Belleville on the Shiloh road, workmen yesterday afternoon came across a deposit of a bright mineral which was assayed by a jeweler as being gold.

The gold deposit was found at a depth of 16 feet from the surface in a layer of sand and gravel four inches thick. One of the workmen who spied the mineral took a quantity of it to a jeweler for a test.

An opinion was expressed, however, that the gold was so sparsely distributed in the sand that it would not be practical for mining.

The Illinois State convention of the Knights of Columbus for 1926 was awarded to East St. Louis at the convention at Springfield, Ill., yesterday. Ottawa, Ill., being defeated in the balloting. About 150 members of the order from East St. Louis attended, led by the delegates, Dr. J. T. Murphy and John T. Connors, Health Commissioner of East St. Louis.

There are about 1700 members in East St. Louis, and it is hoped to have the new home at State street and Washington place completed in time for the 1926 convention.

UNAFFECTED CALM MARKS YOUNG DILLON AT INQUEST

His Bearing Combines Coolness of Man of the World and Ingenuousness of the Schoolboy.

The inscrutable calm of a veteran poker player and the unaffected ingenuousness of the schoolboy. The easy bearing of the man of the world, the youthful carriage of the fledgling collegian. The gloom of a man under a shadow, the exuberance of the undergraduate.

That was Edward George Dillon as he appeared yesterday, the cynosure of every eye, at the inquest into the murder of his father, Dr. Dillon.

If young Dillon had felt the effects of the severe grilling of officers who had arrested him several days before, he did not outwardly show it. His face was unlined by worry and only the incessant movement of his eyelids showed that he was laboring under any sort of a nervous strain.

Immaculately Attired. He was immaculately attired in a light gray suit of perfect fit. He wore a band of mourning on his left sleeve; in his breast pocket was a white handkerchief. His shirt was a soft, pastel gray with a collar to match, and his tie was also gray. He wore black oxfords and carried a gray cap.

Tall and slim, the 19-year-old youth has not reached the athletic development that made his father known throughout the city.

Dillon's eyes are almond shaped, rather than round, and so dark as to approach blackness. A sense of humor shows itself in a rather long upper lip and in the full sweep of uplifted eyebrow, and undaunted pride is revealed in the delicate, lifted nostrils. His chin is firm and well cut.

If the calculating eyes of detectives and deputies were fixed on the youth during much of the inquest he was also the target for the admiring gaze of many girls who appeared at the inquest out of curiosity.

Bearing Not Defiant. Yet to neither did he react.

ANOTHER HOLDUP BY FREIGHT TRAIN ROBBER

The freight train robber, "Jesse James," for whom police are searching St. Louis and East St. Louis last night, got away with his sixth robbery of a freight train near St. Louis since March 24.

A Nickel Plate freight train was running slowly between Edwardsville and Stalling, six miles south, when the robber hopped down from the tender and told the engineer and fireman to "put 'em up." He took their watches and money, and then, telling the engineer to "keep her moving," started back over the train to hold up the brakeman in the caboose. He got watches from all three trainmen and a total of about $200.

Each of his six robberies has netted him three railroad men's watches, worth generally between $50 and $100, and sometimes a considerable amount of "change." Railroad secret service departments are planning to place detectives on freight trains to trap him.

PART OF BOYS' $730 TREASURE IS STOLEN

Impostors Get Half of Buried Money From Mother of One Finder.

This is a story of buried treasure, of treasure found by two small boys and treasure stolen by two strange men.

Last Saturday two boys were playing about the home of Charles Coten, 7820 Water street, who has been unemployed since Coten became a patient at the city sanitarium. They were playing in a chicken shed in the rear and digging for treasure, as Capt. Reid or Long John Silver might. The spade struck a brick and under the brick they found a tin can. The tin can contained $730, $280 being in gold coins and the rest in paper currency.

The boys were Francis Brickley, 13 years old, of 7827 Water street, Albert Weber Jr., 12, of 7821 Water street. They turned the treasure over to their mothers, who divided the money in halves, while the mother wondered whether they should communicate with police or Coten.

On Monday two strange men appeared at the Brickley residence and introduced themselves as "Mr. Murphy" and "Mr. O'Brien," come from the Public Administrator's office to take charge of the money, the finding of which had been a neighborhood gossip. Mrs. Brickley asked for proof of their identity and "Murphy" threw back his coat and displayed a "secret service" badge and a letterhead reading "City of St. Louis, Department of Finance."

Mrs. Brickley surrendered the tin to the visitors, and received a receipt. Then she found out the had not called on Mrs. Weber. The Public Administrator's office was notified and John N. Rickel, a former police captain, now connected with the office, pronounced "Murphy" and "O'Brien" impostors. He recovered the $380 from Mrs. Weber for Coten, who is believed to have buried the treasure before going to the sanitarium.

But the lighter places in the testimony were rare. For the most part it was of perfunctory character and during it the youth maintained his attitude of calmness.

Last Saturday two boys were playing about the home of Charles Coten, 7329 Water street, which has been unoccupied since Coten became a patient at the city sanitarium. They were playing pirates in a chicken shed in the rear and digging for treasure, as Capt. Kidd or Long John Silver might. Their spade struck a brick and under the brick they found a tin can. Mrs. Brickley surrendered $350 to the visitors, and received a receipt. Then she found out that they had not called on Mrs. Weber. The Public Administrator's office was notified and John N. He recovered the $350 from Mrs. Weber for Coten, who is believed to have buried the treasure before going to the sanitarium.

DEFENSE SEEKS TO BAR BRIBE STORY AT DAVIS' TRIAL

Counsel for Former Kansas Governor Challenges the State's Effort to Show Trafficking in Pardons.

EX-CONVICT TELLS OF ALLEGED OFFER

Says He Carried Note From Governor to Pollman, in Which $1250 Payment Was Suggested.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 13.—Arguments on the admissibility of the prosecution's collateral evidence were begun when the trial of former Gov. Jonathan M. Davis on a charge of soliciting a bribe for a pardon, was resumed today.

The State seeks to use the collateral evidence in an effort to show there was trafficking in the executive office in the latter days of Gov. Davis' administration.

The question placed before the court was whether Fred W. Pollman, convicted bank embezzler, should be allowed to relate all details of how he paid $1250 to Russell G. Davis, the former Governor's son, and received a pardon.

As the lawyers argued, ex-Gov. Davis read the market page of a newspaper. His wife sat at his side.

After listening nearly three hours to arguments, Judge McClure dismissed court so he could read decisions cited by attorneys.

Strenuous objection was made by the defense late yesterday when the prosecution sought to draw the whole story from Pollman on the witness stand and the court ordered that arguments be presented today.

Davis is being tried on a charge of conspiring to solicit a bribe for a pardon for Walter Grundy, a convicted bank embezzler.

Judge James A. McClure limited the State yesterday in developing the Pollman charges, which constitute the basis of another criminal action against Davis. It is to be tried, to testimony showing the former Governor's actions and conversations with Pollman and Glenn A. Davis, a convict, who is alleged to have carried messages between Davis and Pollman.

Glenn A. Davis testified he took a message from the Governor to Pollman that if Pollman paid the Governor's son $1250 the pardon pleas of both Pollman and Glenn A. Davis would be considered "in a different light."

Deposition of Prison Guard.

The defense introduced a deposition from E. B. Barnett, a guard at the State Prison, setting forth that Glenn Davis had been disciplined at the prison for misconduct with a negro prisoner.

Glenn Davis denied that he or any other convict paroled from the penitentiary had offered to sell to the Kansas City Star the story of the alleged pardon bribes purporting to have been sought by Gov. Davis. He also denied that the Kansas City Journal-Post, which published a copyrighted story about the alleged pardon sales, had paid him any money.

He said that Dick Smith, managing editor of the Post, had signed a $150 note for him, explaining that he used the money to replace clothing he had lost in a fire at the state reformatory at Hutchinson.

MAN, 73, IS GIVEN 80 DAYS FOR THEFT OF WOMAN'S HAT

He Pleads Guilty in Belleville Court Giving Intention as Reason for Act.

"I was on the water wagon for four years and fell off last October or I would not be here now," said John Patrick Collins, 73 years old, in Judge Weber in the Belleville County Court yesterday. He was arraigned for the theft of a woman's hat valued at $10 from an East St. Louis beauty parlor Feb. 21.

"When I started to drink I could not stop and was a drunkard until last October to the day of my arrest," said Collins. He declared he spent $700 in savings, gave away 11 good suits of clothes and a trunk and even borrowed $150 more from friends with which to purchase liquor. "I will never fall off the water wagon again," said Collins. "I am guilty and must take my medicine but it will teach me a lesson."

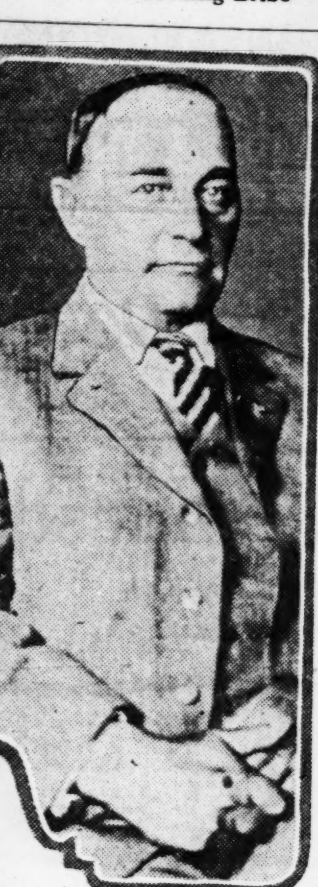

Assistant State's Attorney Curran Lindauer recommended a 90 days jail sentence. Judge Weber said in view of the man's age and the fact that he already spent 40 days in jail, he would let him off with 10 more days in jail.

MISS HESSE AGAIN FAILS OF REINSTATEMENT AS TEACHER

She Was Dismissed in 1921 Because of Remarks About a Member of School Board.

Miss Rosa Hesse, ousted as a school teacher in 1921 because of alleged accusations against Christy W. Johnson, then a member of the Board of Education, failed last night, for the second time in four years, to gain reinstatement.

The Board of Education passed unfavorably on her request, despite the fact that a petition signed by thousands of citizens was filed in behalf of her reinstatement. Miss Hesse asked that she be reinstated with her old rank of head assistant and with pay for the time during which her services have been interrupted.

Miss Hesse was charged with saying Johnson was interested in a real estate firm which got most of the board's business. She had accused Johnson of soliciting a bribe for a pardon for Walter Grundy, a convicted bank embezzler.

The board at last night's meeting also rescinded its order that P. J. Peinemann Co. for playground equipment. The board also rescinded its order that a contract be awarded to the Peinemann Co. for the construction of a playground.

HAS WIFE START PHONOGRAPH AND ENDS LIFE WITH POISON

Edward C. Weber, 40, Is Found Dead by Mrs. Weber on Return to Room.

"Put on a record," commanded Edward C. Weber, 40 years old, of his wife, Clara, when he returned to his home, 2832 Gravois avenue, and lay on a lounge in the front room at 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The request was granted and Mrs. Weber left the room as the phonograph music started. Returning half an hour later she was unable to arouse her husband, and calling a doctor found he was dead.

An empty bottle that had contained poison was beside the lounge. Police tracing it learned Weber had bought the poison two days ago as a "lotion." He was a shipping clerk and yesterday when he came home, the wife told policemen, he appeared to have been drinking.

ROW OVER UNION OFFICIAL

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 12.—Another "subdistrict president" of the fourth inside of some weeks, held office in the United Mine Workers' organization here today. State President Farrington expelled the last subdistrict head, Tom Parry, of Diverson, after a week in office, on the ground that he had violated the constitution.

Farrington also announced that Parry's appointment of Joe Tumulty as vice president was illegal, and named Charles Peacock to the office, after Parry's removal advanced him to the presidency. Parry today resisted Farrington's authority, and declared his headquarters would remain in action. This will mean a renewal of the situation of a month ago, when Peacock, man Thompson, first president, was ousted and John Walker put in his place. However, Farrington today advised mine operators that Peacock was the official president. This trouble started when Peacock, Thompson, was charged with winning election by tampering with vote totals.

DR. ECKLUND'S STATE MEDICAL LICENSE REVOKED

Proprietor of Pathological Laboratory Fails to Attend Hearing but Is Represented by Counsel.

The Missouri medical license of Dr. A. M. Ecklund, in charge of Washington University's outpatient clinic and proprietor of the Lister Pathological Laboratory in the Lister Building, was revoked by the State Board of Health after a hearing at the Municipal Courts Building yesterday.

A complaint had been filed with the board by Dr. Joseph R. Sintel, former secretary of the College of Physicians and Surgeons here charging that Dr. Ecklund had committed fraud by stating in his application for a license that he had attended P. & S. for four years, beginning in 1918, when the truth was that he had attended only during the school year of 1921-22.

Testimony Against Ecklund.

Dr. Fred C. Waite, medical examiner, testified records at the college with Ecklund, who had attended one year only, and he had been admitted on a diploma from the Pacific Medical College of Los Angeles, a discredited institution.

Dr. William Koutsopoulos, 737 Audubert avenue, testified he attended P. & S. four years and graduated with Ecklund, who had attended only the senior year.

Dr. James Stewart, secretary of the board, testified that Dr. Ecklund had called three times at Dr. Stewart's residence, 6053 McPherson avenue, Jan. 3, 4, 5, and after announcing he had heard he was to be cited for fraud, declared his willingness to surrender his license voluntarily, provided there would be no publicity. Dr. Stewart refused. Dr. Stewart quoted his caller as saying the license had caused him nothing but trouble and publicity would hurt his pathological business, for which no license was required.

Defense of Dr. Ecklund.

Dr. Ecklund did not attend the hearing, but was represented by Walter Saunders, his attorney. The defense presented several character witnesses who testified as to Dr. Ecklund's qualifications as a pathologist. Also presented was an opinion by Merrill E. Oits, when Assistant Attorney-General Thompson announced here today that he "will gladly accept the co-operation of William Jennings Bryan in defending the act prohibiting the teaching of the theory of evolution in the public schools of Tennessee."

Thompson said he will have nothing to do with the case until it reaches the State Supreme Court, where the matter will be handled by the District Attorney in the lower court.

STATE TAX 11 CENTS ON $100 INSTEAD OF 10 AS PROPOSED

Comptroller Notified of Increase for Blind Pension Fund—Total Levy Here $2.57.

Comptroller Nolte received notification yesterday from State Auditor Thompson that the State tax rate for St. Louis this year would be 11 instead of 10 cents on the $100 valuation, the increase applying to the blind pension fund. This makes the total tax rate for all purposes to St. Louisans $2.57, the highest rate since 1923, when the rate was $2.55.

The 11 cents for the State is apportioned on the basis of 5 cents for general and State purposes, 2 cents for interest and sinking fund; for the sinking fund, 1 cent for other interest and sinking fund purposes and 3 cents for the blind pension fund.

The city includes $127 for the conduct of municipal departments; $2 cents for the public library; 1 cent for the Public Library; 2 cents for the Zoo; 2 cents for the Arm Museum, and 24 cents for interest and sinking fund on the city's bonded indebtedness.

BRYAN AGREES TO HELP PROSECUTE 'EVOLUTION CASE'

Commoner Requested by Fundamentalists to Aid Them in Test of Tennessee Statute.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 13.—William Jennings Bryan will represent the World's Christian Fundamental Association in the prosecution of J. T. Scopes of Dayton, Tenn., he announced in addressing a meeting of the Pittsburgh Presbytery.

Scopes is charged with teaching the theory of evolution in violation of a Tennessee law.

Bryan, who defended passages of the law in his speech yesterday, received a telegram from the association in Memphis asking him to handle the case, which is designed to test the constitutionality of the statute, and he telegraphed his acceptance.

"You know we have passed a law in Tennessee requiring that no theories in conflict with the Bible be taught in the schools," Bryan said. "A violation of this law has resulted in a case which will afford a test of it. I have been asked to help in the fight to preserve the integrity of that law, and I am going to do it. We cannot afford to have a system of education that destroys the religious faith of 75 per cent of our children. It is time to take the church out of the hands of the people who do not believe the Bible."

Fund Being Raised for Defense of Scopes.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—Persons interested in the defense of J. T. Scopes, who consented to arrest on May 5 in order to start a test case of the evolution law, have announced plans for the collection of a fund to defray the expenses of carrying the litigation to the Supreme Court.

WIDOW OF RAIL CHIEF POSES FOR FIGURE FOR MAUSOLEUM

NEW YORK, May 13.—Mrs. Alfred H. Smith, whose husband, then president of the New York Central lines, was killed by a fall from a horse in Central Park a year ago, has posed for one of two figures for a granite mausoleum which will mark his grave in Kensico Cemetery.

This was admitted yesterday by Charles Keck, sculptor. Mrs. Smith, he said, had been his model for the arms, hands and face of the female nude figure of the group. A professional model had posed for the body.

Keck explained that the female figure of the group, "Inspiration," holding up the lamp of knowledge, was symbolic of Mrs. Smith, while the male nude figure, "Achievement," with one hand resting on the winged wheel of progress, typified Smith. The cost of the tomb and plot at Kensico Cemetery is estimated at $80,000.

TWO YEARS FOR 'SERUM SWINDLE RING' MEMBER

Emanuel Gartman of Doniphan, Mo., Pleads Guilty of Using Mails in Insurance Fraud Plot.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, May 13.—Emanuel Gartman of Doniphan, Mo., alleged head of a "serum swindle" ring, today pleaded guilty in United States District Court here to the first count in an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud an insurance company through a fake automobile accident. He was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta prison.

The Government charged that Gartman entered into a conspiracy with the Astra Life Insurance Co. and Astra Casualty and Surety Co., from which he obtained a policy covering injury or damage he might cause while driving a machine. It is charged that he made an arrangement with Carl Pickett and Claude B. Kinnard, in which Pickett and Kinnard would bring suit against him for pretended injuries and give him half of such money as they might receive from the insurance companies in settlement of their claims.

PATROL OF 40 U. S. PLANES AMAZES HAWAIIAN RESIDENTS

Two Injured Gazing at Craft Catapulted From Langley.

By the Associated Press.

LAHAINA, Island and Maui, May 13.—Increased airplane activities from the United States catapulted two injured Hawaiian residents from the Langley. The United States fleet of 40 planes yesterday, more than 40 planes were in the air forming a patrol which caused the island residents to gaze skyward in wonder and amazement.

The interest of the residents was so intense that one, standing on a railroad right of way, failed to heed the sound of an approaching locomotive. He was slightly injured when struck by the locomotive.

Another plantation employee loading sugar cane while viewing the planes, permitted a 100-pound bag of sugar to fall upon him. He was injured.

Modernist Poet Dead.

MISS AMY LOWELL.

AMY LOWELL, FREE VERSE POET, DIES OF SPINAL RIGIDITY

the average woman is not intended for intellectual life," she once stated in an interview. "Women haven't the mental equipment of men—nor were they intended to have it. The average man, I consider, is superior to the average woman."

Miss Lowell had many traits that were regarded as eccentricities. She was extremely intense and emotional, and in discussions of questions of letters she not infrequently became exercised to tears.

Miss Lowell did her writing at night and slept by day, rising late in the afternoon. She smoked mild cigars.

Miss Lowell's style, which evoked every kind of comment from praise to mockery, is revealed in the two following short compositions, though she did not limit herself to that form of construction. Sometimes a line of verse would consist of but a single word; at other times, a complete paragraph. Here are the two short poems:

BULLION.

My thoughts
Chink against my ribs
And roll about like silver hailstones.
I should like to spill them out
And pour them, all shining,
Over you.
But my heart is shut upon them
And holds them straightly.
Come, you! and open my heart:
That my thoughts torment me no longer.
But glitter in your hair.

OPAL.

You are ice and fire.
The touch of you burns my hands
Like snow.
You are cold and flame.
You are the crimson of amethysts
The silver of moon-touched magnolias.
When I am with you,
My heart is a frozen pond
Gleaming with agitated torches.
Two hobbies of Miss Lowell were dogs and travel. She maintained kennels of the finest dogs on her estate—Sevenells in Brookline—and she stated once she had been in every part of the world except South Africa and wanted to go there sometime.

LORD MILLNER DIES OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

He Rose From Humble Ranks to Peerage and Became War Minister.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 13.—Lord Milner, former Secretary of War, who has been ill some time, died here today. Lord Milner had been suffering with sleeping sickness.

Viscount Milner's death is the first fatality in the epidemic of sleeping sickness which has affected several hundred persons throughout Great Britain. Physicians have been unable to explain the sudden appearance of the disease.

Lord Milner was reported improved on Sunday, but yesterday he weakened and it was announced his conditions were causing grave anxiety.

His Rise to Peerage.

Lord Milner's first attempt to enter politics was through Parliament at the request of several leaders of the Liberal party. He went before the constituency of the Harrow division in 1885, but was defeated. He was named private secretary to the then Chancellor of the Exchequer. From that time his rise in politics was rapid.

In succession he was appointed under-secretary for finance in Egypt, chairman of the Board of Inland Revenue and Governor of the Cape of Good Hope. At the close of the Boer war recognition came to him for his administrative services in South Africa and in addition to being created a Viscount he was made Governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony as well as High Commissioner. He returned to England in 1905 and as his party was at that time out of power he retired to his estates.

Member of War Cabinet.

When David Lloyd George became Prime Minister in December, 1916, during the World War, Lord Milner entered the Cabinet as Minister without portfolio. He became Minister for War in 1918 and the next year was named Secretary of State for the colonies. The manner in which he handled the Irish situation did not satisfy the Conservatives of the Coalition Government or the Irish factions and he resigned in February, 1921.

Lord Milner was created a Knight of the Garter by royal warrant, being at that time the only member not of royal birth.

He was born March 23, 1854, the son of Dr. Charles Milner, a country physician. His mother, Maxie, was a daughter of the late Admiral Frederick Augustus Maxie.

Supplementing his practice with journalistic work.

While on the staff of the Pall Mall Gazette, the leading political afternoon newspaper of that time, he became acquainted with the leaders of the Liberal party.

In 1921 Lord Milner married the widow of Lord Evelyn Cecil. She was Violet Georgina Maxie, a daughter of the late Admiral Frederick Augustus Maxie.

DON'T KNOW WHETHER THEY GAMBLLED OR NOT

Two Detectives Want Legal Ruling on Games Played for Prizes at Carnival.

Does shooting an air rifle for a prize constitute gambling? Is tossing baseballs into a barrel gambling? If a successful toss wins a kewpie doll or a basket of groceries as a prize?

Detectives Lee Brown and Joseph O'Brien want to know. And so they have submitted to the Prosecuting Attorney two pieces of candy, one toy ballroom and a pair of celluloid spectacles which they got in a carnival last night after several unsuccessful attempts at shooting an air rifle and tossing a ball at a barrel.

Brown and O'Brien visited a carnival at Virginia avenue and Liberty street last night. At a booth operated by William Bonner, Detective Brown paid 10 cents to shoot an air-rifle at a target. His failure to hit the bull's eye lost him the capital prize, a kewpie doll, but he got a pair of celluloid spectacles which went with the purchase of the shots.

Then to the booth of Samuel Levy repaired Brown and O'Brien. Levy let them shoot twice with an air rifle, charging 10 cents. Here the capital prizes were cigarettes. Levy gave the detectives a piece of candy with their purchase of the shots, but they failed to hit a bull's eye and win a package of smokes.

At the booth of Peter Netoli they paid 10 cents to toss baseballs at a barrel. Put the ball in the barrel and you get a basket of groceries. They missed the barrel and got another piece of candy. When they tried three throws, at 10 cents for the three, at a row of cans. Land a ball in a can and you get a kewpie doll. The policemen missed the cans and Netoli gave them a toy ballroom.

Brown and O'Brien were uncertain whether they had been gambling or not but Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer will let them know after he has heard what they have to report.

Supplementing his practice with journalistic work.

While on the staff of the Pall Mall Gazette, the leading political afternoon newspaper of that time, he became acquainted with the leaders of the Liberal party.

In 1921 Lord Milner married the widow of Lord Evelyn Cecil. She was Violet Georgina Maxie, a daughter of the late Admiral Frederick Augustus Maxie.

WIFE REPLIES TO SUIT OF CANNEFAX

She Seeks Divorce Decree and an Award of Alimony.

Robert L. Cannefax has "numerous enamoreds," according to a cross bill filed here yesterday by his wife, Lillian, in answer to his recent suit for divorce. Cannefax, a former St. Louisan, is a champion billiard player, and now resides in New York.

On one occasion Mrs. Cannefax recited, one of the "anamoritas" quoted at the Cannefax home on North Kingshighway boulevard and "hurled missiles through the window and glass doors" while Cannefax failed and refused to offer protection to his wife or to "remonstrate against the outrageous actions of his admirer."

They were married here in 1911 and lived together until July, 1915, when Cannefax is alleged to have taken his leave. Since then Mrs. Cannefax alleges he has failed to support her, but has associated with other women and continued to their support. She believes he has an income in excess of $1000 a month from his billiard exhibitions. She asks for a divorce and alimony and an order restraining the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., which has Cannefax under contract, from paying Cannefax any money until her claims are satisfied.

The suit was filed by Thomas L. Anderson for Mrs. Cannefax, and was assigned to Judge Peary's division of the Court of Domestic Relations.

C. K. WOODBRIDGE NOMINATED FOR ADVERTISING CLUB HEAD

Committee Also Recommends Be Held in Philadelphia.

By the Associated Advertisers of HOUSTON, Tex., May 12.—Philadelphia was recommended for the 1926 convention of the Associated Advertisers of the World at a meeting last night of the board of club presidents. The convention will vote on the nomination Thursday.

The selection did not come until after more than three hours' discussion and after St. Petersburg, Fla., had withdrawn from the race, with the tentative understanding that Philadelphia would support the Florida city for the 1927 convention.

In nominating Philadelphia the club president's first consideration was the invitation of Mexico City to meet there next year. C. King Woodbridge of New York was nominated for president.

The National Advertising Commission elected W. Frank McVey of Chicago chairman; George Burbach of St. Louis vice chairman; and Charles F. Hatfield, St. Louis, secretary.

ST. LOUISAN SPEAKS AT ST. CHARLES C. OF C. MEETING

R. S. RAUSCHKOLB ADVISED ON METHODS OF ADVANCING AND IMPROVING THE CITY.

Application of methods used by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce in dealing with civic problems was recommended to the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce last night at its annual meeting, by Roy S. Rauschkolb, field representative of the St. Louis organization.

"Close co-operation of citizens to whom the advancement and improvement of the city is of greatest importance, through Chamber of Commerce, will bring about the same measure of success it has accomplished in larger communities," he said. "Common aims and objectives can be realized only through common effort."

Paul Hauser, William Wayne Jr., and Judge E. B. Wolfolk, all of St. Charles, spoke.

A board of directors was elected as follows: Dr. August Westerfeld, John Steinbrecker, Mrs. R. M. Thomson, Fred Meyer, Ernst Schneider, Ernst Borgmeyer, J. H. Lachland and John L. Roemer.

Jeffries Elected Moberly Mayor. Moberly, Mo., May 12.—Jerry M. Jeffries, an attorney, elected Mayor of Moberly yesterday, to succeed the late Dr. S. P. Towles, who died one day after he took the oath of office. Jeffries polled 2342 votes in the special election and Rolla R. Rothwell, the other candidate, 2062 votes. The proposal to issue $25,000 in bonds for the improvement of Forest Park failed to receive the necessary two-thirds majority.

HOUSE OF DAVID IS NAMED IN $200,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Parents Also Charge That Daughter Was Forced to Wed at 'King Ben's' Direction.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 13.—The House of David is made defendant in a $200,000 damage suit that has been filed in Circuit Court here by Peter Johnson and his wife, Margaret, former members of the colony and parents of Lavina Johnson, one-time "hula-hula" dancer at the House of David Park. The Johnsons seek the recovery of money they charge was turned into the colony treasury when they became members. They also ask for payment for labor done while members.

The suit also charges that Lavina was married at the age of 17

without courtship to a man she barely knew, at the direction of "King" Benjamin Purnell, fugitive leader of the colony. The girl was granted a divorce from Hegner in 1923. She played a prominent part in the State's investigation of the colony two years ago.

The Johnson suit is similar to that of John Hansel, former member, and his family, who received a judgment of $25,000 from the colony.

GEN. SAVINKOFF KILLS HIMSELF IN RUSSIAN PRISON

Tired of Sentence for Counter-Revolution, He Throws Himself From Fifth Story Window.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, May 13.—The suicide of Gen. Boris Savinkoff, former Assistant Minister of War under Kerensky, who threw himself from the window of his cell in the state political department prison in Moscow, has caused a sensation.

Although the suicide occurred May 7, it was not announced to the public by the soviet press until today. Savinkoff was serving a long prison term for counter-revolution.

After turning informer for the state, the former Assistant War Minister was accorded many privileges in the Moscow prison that were not enjoyed by other prisoners, and it was believed he was as content with his lot as a man could be under the circumstances.

But Savinkoff evidently took his life because he found there was little chance for his liberation. In a letter to Djerjinsky, head of the supreme economic council and once head of the Cheka, asking if and when he would be released, Savinkoff said:

"I thought that two courses would be open to me—either I would be shot immediately or if I told all I would be forgiven and allowed to engage in some work."

When his plea was unanswered, Savinkoff took advantage of the fact that the window of the room in which he was confined had no iron bars, and returning from his daily exercise in the corridors on May 7, he went directly to the window and threw himself from the fifth floor into the prison courtyard. His death was instantaneous.

Worked Against Bolsheviks.
Savinkoff was said to have organized the assassinations which were the first signal of the 1905 revolution. After the fall of Kerensky he carried on intensive counter-revolutionary work against the Bolsheviks.

He finally decided to return to Russia and leaving Paris last year, he crossed the Russian frontier disguised as a Russian repatriate. His identity was discovered by the Russian authorities and he was taken to Moscow for trial.

"I know my fate before you hand down your sentence," he told the court. "I am not afraid to die; I do not value my life and I do not ask leniency. I ask you only to remember my previous revolutionary services for the Russian people. I am not a nemesis of the people; I wanted to save them."

The death sentence which Savinkoff received was commuted to 10 years in prison.

Savinkoff had considerable talent as a writer, having written several romances and many poems.

His greatest revolutionary exploit was said to have been the organization of an uprising which resulted in the deaths of several thousand persons at Yaroslavl.

His Stormy Career.
After the 1905 revolution, Savinkoff was arrested and shut up in the Sebastopol fortress. Thanks to his brother-in-law, Savinkoff succeeded in escaping the evening before he was to be executed, and took refuge in France.

When the war broke, he hurried to Paris and preached, with his pen, a crusade against unchained barbarism, glorifying the country he loved so passionately, France in arms.

The Russian revolution took him back to his native land, where he struggled with all his might against the disorganization of the army.

He was responsible for the advance of the Russian army in July, 1917. After the bolshevik revolution he assumed leadership of the antibolshevik forces and organized the Yaroslavl uprising.

He raised an army to defend the constituent assembly in Samara and directed activities against the bolsheviks from Poland.

ADVISORY LAW BODY

Democrats to Help Reorganize City Department.Mayor Miller today appointed a committee of seven lawyers, five Republicans and two Democrats, to advise with him in a contemplated reorganization of the City Law Department.The members of the committee are Circuit Judges Killoran and Hamilton; Presiding Judge Daves
of the St. Louis Court of Appeals and former City Counselor; former City Counselor Henry S. Caulfield; Truman H. Young, former Associate City Counselor, Republicans; J. W. Jamison, general counsel of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and Nat. S. Brown, general solicitor of the Wabash Railroad Co., Democrats.Mayor Miller, in a communication to the appointees, advised them that he was cognizant of their desire to serve the public and that his administration would avail itself of their counsel.Jamison, as attorney for the Bell company, has appeared for it at the city hall in recent hearings on the application of the company to have its rates increased $300,000 annually.Mayor Miller recently wrote a letter to the Wabash Railroad officials in which he said it was his intention to order immediate steps for the construction of the Delmar boulevard viaduct which would eliminate the Wabash grade crossing east of Skinker road. Under the city's plan for depression of the railroad tracks, the railroad will have to bear 60 per cent of the cost of the viaduct which will range between $450,000 and $480,- 000.The Wabash is opposing the city's plan and will appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision of the Missouri Supreme Court which upheld the city's plan.Jamison said he had not been advised of the appointment but considered it an honor.CANADIAN AND 15 ALIENS ARRESTED BY BORDER PATROL

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, May 13.—With the arrest yesterday of Charles Mc-Carthy of Windsor by United States agents, the operation of an "underground railroad" for aliens
wishing to enter this country illegally, is believed to have been stopped.Fifteen aliens who, agents said, were brought across the Detroit River, also were arrested. The party included three Chinese said to have paid $200 each for being put ashore on the United States side.
Walter F. Brooks, chief of the immigration border patrol, said that the department had evidence against McCarthy which indicated
he had been bringing in approximately 100 aliens a week at an average rate of $30 a person.

EXPLOSION RESTORES SPEECH

LONDON.—When six manholes exploded in a Filikirk street the shock restored the speech of a disabled ex-soldier. He is Frank Bill-ling, who was on tramp through the town in search of work. Billing had suffered from a serious im-pement in his speech since he was buried in a dug-out during the war.
He fell to the ground with fright
when the explosions occurred.
When assisted to his feet he was amazed to find himself speaking freely words of thanks to his helper. "It's as good as a job to me," he said. A number of persons were injured when the manholes blew up, and one woman is unconscious
in hospital. A man who was standing on one of the manhole covers was flung into the air, but was not seriously hurt.PEP

Make a Test of Kolor-Bak Today

People everywhere praise Kolor-Bak for its remarkable power to banish grayness. The results are really astonishing, for no matter what the original shade was, it quickly reappears when this clean, colorless liquid is used.

According to scientists, grayness comes when age, illness, shock or disease causes a lack in the normal supply of coloring matter furnished to the hair—but whatever the cause, Kolor-Bak soon brings back the former shade, and the shade is uniform throughout.

BETTING EVIDENCE RESULTS IN ONLY TWO INDICTMENTS

Of 162 Men Arrested in 40 Raids by the Police, 110 Testify Before Grand Jury.

CIGAR STORE OWNER AND SALESMAN HELD

Insufficiency of Proof in 12 or More Cases Presented Said to Have Been Displeasing to Jurors.

Only two indictments were voted by the grand jury on evidence seized by police yesterday afternoon when they raided 40 cigar stores, saloons, poolrooms and offices in search of racing handbook makers and their customers. A total of 162 men were arrested.

The only evidence which the jury deemed as justifying an indictment was seized in a raid on the Smoke House, a cigar store at 319 North Grand boulevard, just south of Olive street. James J. Carroll, 2334A Olive street, the proprietor, and Ollie C. Becker, 25 Washington boulevard, a salesman, were indicted as custodians of bets.

Detective-Sergeant Barney Verheyen and Patrolman Edward Ne-houl seized a number of racing form sheets and notations on horse bets, some on the Kentucky Derby. They arrested Carroll, Becker and four customers. One of the customers gave his occupation as student, although 35 years old. One was a musician and the other two were waiters. The customers were taken before the grand jury and gave testimony which resulted in the indictments.

110 Used as Witnesses.

Of those arrested, 52 were booked and bonded suspected of being in charge of gambling, while the other 110 were used as witnesses before the grand jury. Many were unwilling witnesses, to judge from their remarks at the Municipal Courts Building.

It was freely reported that the grand jury was displeased at the insufficiency of evidence and lack of preparedness in the 12 or more cases presented. The jury discovered to its surprise that the "witness" in one case was a blind man, and in another case a deaf and dumb man.

Being custodian of a bet is a felony punishable by imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for two to five years, or in jail for six to 12 months, or fine not less than $500, or both fine and imprisonment. The last trial here on that charge was in 1915. The defendant was acquitted, but later pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was fined $500.

The raids yesterday were made simultaneously at 2 p. m.—the "zero hour." The police were furnished with lists of the suspected gambling establishments and ordered to arrest every person found therein. The places raided were in every section of the city but South St. Louis, and extended as far north as 3039 North Broadway and as far west as 1010 Hodiament avenue. Two offices in the Benolat and United Home Building were included.

Kearney Sees His Competition.

Thomas Kearney and Daniel Murphy, his assistant, were arrested in Kearney's cigar store at 407 Walnut street, but customers were conspicuously absent. Upon viewing the others arrested, at Central Police Station, Kearney observed, "I never realized until now I had so much competition."

Raiders who visited a store at 725 St. Charles street were greeted, "Gee, you're an hour late!" Which set the raiders to wondering whether the greeter was joking or had a "tip" on the raid.

TWO MEN TAKEN AS BOOTLEGGERS IN THE CITY HALL

Negro Janitor in Collector's Office and Negro Saloon Keeper Accused of Peddling Liquor.

RAIDS MADE ON FORTY MORE SALOONS

Police Report They Found Liquor in Fifteen of the Places—30 Persons in All Arrested.

Thirty persons were arrested yesterday in a continuation of general police activity extending even to the city hall, where two negroes were arrested charged with bootlegging. During the day 40 saloons were visited and liquor was found in 15 raids.

The men who were arrested at city hall are George Arnold, 113 East Haven street, a janitor in the Collector's office, and Warren
Smith of 811 North Eleventh street,
a saloon keeper.

The arrests were made by Probationary Patrolmen Fisher and Wessler, disguised as city employes
by the simple expedient of removing their coats and going to the city hall hatless and coatless. Inquiry after a drink, which Detective Sergeant Conkley of the whisky squad had been told was to be had somewhere in the city hall,
finally brought them to a locker room in the basement where Arnold volunteered to get them a half pint of whisky. The liquor was brought to the place by Smith.
After the sale had been made both negroes were arrested.

Evidence Dropped and Broken.

A piece of broken glass redolent,
last night, of the fumes of moonshine, is the only evidence against Edward E. Weaver of 127 Loughborough avenue, who was in a saloon at 3212 South Broadway when police raided it last night. Weaver ran from the place, dropping a well-filled bottle on the sidewalk. He was halted by a policeman who fired in the air. Theodore Koenig, proprietor, was arrested on Weaver's statement that Koenig had sold him the bottle of moonshine. Weaver also was arrested and a piece of the broken bottle is listed in the report as the evidence against him.

Ill-fortune attended the one-man raid of Sergt. Burke on the saloon of Steve Panus at 825 O'Fallon street yesterday. Burke, in uniform, asked Steve for a drink.
Steve went upstairs and returned with a glass of whisky. Burke reported.

Man and Wife Arrested.

The Sergeant announced he was going to search the place upstairs and went up the steps carrying the glass in his hand. He found no liquor. At the head of the steps,
he reported, Steve and his wife,
Rosie, attacked him. The glass fell to the floor. The evidence was lost. Steve was arrested charged with resisting arrest and his wife was charged with interfering with a police officer. Michael Donohue was arrested last night when police found a quart of beer in a cask on top in his saloon at 3621
West Florissant avenue. The police were attracted to the place
by the flight of a dozen men from the saloon as the policemen passed.
Donohue came in after the place had been searched and declared it had been in charge of a bartender.

A locksmith's shop at 1469
Francis street was one of the liquor raid objectives that yielded evidence yesterday. Henry J.
Hook, proprietor of the shop was arrested after 48 quarts of home
brew had been found in his place.

STORY OF FLOGGING DENIED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 12.—Denial of the story of Benjamin T. Way, 74-year-old father of Nelson ("Pie") Way, former Yale and Giants pitcher, that he was flogged a month ago near Sanford, Fla., by men who wanted to drive him from town,
was coupled yesterday in a telegram to the New York World from R. L. Dean, Yale '23, publisher of the Sanford Herald, with the admission that Way was warned to leave Sanford by a committee of celery growers. Way still bears marks he says came from the beating, which he contends was administered because a letter he wrote to his son here, advising him not to eat Florida celery, was stolen before it could be mailed.

Way has been trying for several years to introduce celery for sale
to local growers, wired Dean.
"One leading grower tried it for a season and found it worthless. Way, apparently sore because growers would not buy from him, is said to have written many letters North advising friends and markets not to eat or sell Sanford celery, as it was poisonous. After advising him to stop letter writing, a committee of growers warned him to leave town." Dr. Radfield, chief of the United States Bureau of Chemistry here, said yesterday the Department of Agriculture had found Sanford celery "dangerous to health" because spray, containing arsenic, clung to the stalks on account of the dry weather.

RE-BROADCAST AIR-TO-EARTH
TALK ON DIFFERENT WAVEArmy Aviators and Radio Experts
Succeeded in New Experiment
After Three-Day Tests.By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 12.—Army aviators and radio experts, who for the last three days have been conducting experimental flights, announced last night that for the first time in radio history a successful plane-to-earth conversation had been picked up and sent out over the air again on a different wave length by a broadcasting station. The plane used a 50-watt transmitter, broadcasting on 750 meters. This was picked up by Station WLS here and re-broadcast on its regular wave of 345 meters with 100 watts of power. Many listeners heard the airplane conversation. The new method of transmission will be used in connection with the United States Army Show at Grant Park Stadium next week.

MAYOR GUEST OF MEN
'WHO KNEW HIM' WHEN

Miller and Other Former Joplinites Talk About Old Days Back Home.

Mayor Miller was the guest of 100 former residents of Joplin, Mo., his birthplace, at a luncheon at the City Club yesterday. He listened to recollections of his friends about his boyhood and the service his father, the late Julius C. Miller, had rendered as Sheriff of Jasper County.

"Every cloud has a silver lining," the Mayor said in a brief address, "and I will say that some of the heavy clouds have settled over me in the past few weeks. This meeting is an evidence of the silver lining, however. It is more than a relief, it is an incentive."

"My good political opponents have not appreciated my having left Joplin. One of them was kind enough to say that when Joplin was cleaned out, St. Louis got Victor Miller. One of our newspapers has dubbed me 'the Joplin Jester.' I all helped me."

"Joplin is a fertile field for the development of men as evidenced by the gathering here. For myself, if I have brought any credit on my native city, I am happy to have done so. My career has been a continual fight but the early spirit of my home town has carried me through it all."

Former Supreme Court Judge Fred L. Williams said that Mayor Miller had proved himself to be a man of courage. "That he owes to his father, who, I recall, had two of his deputies shot down at his side and still pressed on to capture a dangerous criminal. As Mayor, Victor will have an opportunity to do a great service. I believe he has the good judgment not to be fooled by the moths who flutter about the throne but to accept the counsel of men who have only the city's welfare at heart."

Minister Suggests Motto. The Rev. W. M. Cleveland, now of Decatur but formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church in Joplin, recalled Mayor Miller as a boy and suggested that his motto be: "Never complain and never growl; never explain but just let them howl; hitch your wagon to a star; plow on, fight your way through, and there you are."

The Mayor was presented with a paper weight carved from stone from Joplin. For C. Johnson presided.

TWO PILGRIMS WALK TO ROME
Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.
ROME, April 23.—Two unusual Anno Santo pilgrims recently presented themselves for confession at St. Peter's. One was from Oberammergau, in Bavaria, the other from Scotland. Both had made the entire pilgrimage on foot, except, of course, the passage of the English Channel by the Scot. The clergy raised a fund to permit them to return home by railroad.

In the first Anno Santo, 625 years ago, and many subsequent ones, the great majority of the pilgrims came on foot. It is still customary for young German boys and girls to walk to Rome in the spring, sometimes with piety in their hearts, sometimes merely with the zest for adventure. Some affect the trade of troubadour and sing to the guitar in the streets, accepting or requesting pennies to buy their evening meal.

Dawes Follows More Footsteps.
BOSTON, May 12.—Following in the steps of his noted ancestor, William Dawes Jr., who rode with Paul Revere before the battles of Lexington and Concord, Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, has become a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. His application was presented to the company by Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Allen and his sponsors were President Calvin Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks and Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, all members.Compulsory Music Training Urged Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.
DUBLIN, April 20.—Joseph O'Mara, famous Irish tenor and head of a well-known opera company, has been urging the Government of the Irish Free State to make music a compulsory part of national education in view of its influence on morality. While other nations have made rapid advance in music in the last 20 years, Ireland, O'Mara asserts, has stood still, next to nothing having been done to develop this branch of the national inheritance. The Irish people have a natural talent for music but for want of education the talent lies buried and untouched.

When YOU Come SEE
Salt Lake City

A world famed Salt Lake City, take a dip in the great inland sea, 22 per cent salt and so buoyant that even the amateur may float like a cork. See the marvels of Nature—climb a gorgeous "living" glacier, two hours from Salt Lake City—visit the world's largest open cut copper mine—motor over scenic drives that Switzerland might envy. Fish, hunt, golf—ride horseback, hike or motor to beautiful mountain hotels famous for their cuisine. Places of historic interest, and beauty, the Mormon Temple and Tabernacle, attract thousands of visitors every month.

Yellowstone, Zion National Park, Bryce Canyon and the north rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado are all reached from Salt Lake City, gateway to 61 national parks and monuments.

Combine pleasure with an eye for opportunity. Utah is destined to become a great steel state. Iron ore, limestone and coaling coal in vast deposits within short distances of each other, assure success for the recently established steel industry which promises to make Salt Lake City the great iron and steel center of the west.

SWISS BAR USE OF LEADED MOTOR FUEL

"These Compounds Are Exceedingly Dangerous," Says Health Commissioner.

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

BERNE, May 12.—The use of tetra ethyl leaded gasoline or of any motor fuel containing lead is prohibited in Switzerland by a Federal decree issued about a month ago. The customs officials have been instructed to analyze all lead-treated imports and to ascertain the destination of all such products entering the country.

In an interview, Dr. Carriere, Commissioner of Public Health of Switzerland, declared:

"The scientific investigation being conducted by Dr. H. Zangger, professor of forensic medicine at the University of Zurich, and others, have revealed that these lead compounds are exceedingly dangerous to the public as well as to the motor mechanics."

"Under the Swiss law importation of such products cannot be prohibited except by statute; but their use can be and is prohibited by the Federal Council within the entire confederation. Such imports, however, are traced by the customs, to the end of minimizing their illegitimate sale. The same ruling affects patent compounds which are used for treating ordinary benzine."

The correspondent has ascertained that the General Motors Co. is conducting a vigorous propaganda for these products, especially in France, where their use is expected to become general.

THIRD DIMENSION CAMERA
ENDS MOVIE CAMOUFLAGE
Head of Essanay Co. Says New Invention Produces Pictures From Natural Vision.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 12.—George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Film Co., a pioneer in the moving picture industry, is preparing to offer an innovation in a third dimension camera which, he said today, is ready for action. The new dimension is depth.

The camera was invented by John Berggren, aided by Spoor. They have been at work on it since 1916. The films are three times the size of the ordinary film. The secret is bending the light rays by various bits of lens.

Spoor said he expected to open with a Western picture in London, New York, Chicago and Los Angeles Aug. 15.

"There are only 400 or 500 theaters in the country that have screen room enough to show these pictures," he said. "We call these natural vision pictures, because everything is shown before you just as it is, without distortion."

"We are building this village with real houses, because no camouflaging can get by in these pictures. If it is a painted slide it shows so. If it is pasteboard it shows."

"We are going to produce our own pictures and show them. After that we do not know what will happen. George Eastman came here last week from Rochester and saw the pictures. He said that camera was the greatest attack on the moving picture industry anyone had ever made. I do not call it an attack. I call it progress."

CAMPAIGN AGAINST "BEDS"
London Taking Strong Measures to Check Activities of Bolsheviks.

LONDON, May 12.—The Daily Chronicle says the police are taking strong measures against the bolsheviks in London. The permits of numerous persons to remain in England have been canceled and the renewal of others refused, the number thus dealt with mounting into the hundreds.

Quantities of literature also have been seized. In consequence of these measures, the paper declares, the bolshevik book shop here, where the newspapers Pravda, Izvestia and other publications were sold, have closed and the official bolshevik paper in England, the Soviet Union Review, has ceased publication. The staffs of the Russian commercial establishments are being greatly reduced, the Chronicle adds, but it is unaware whether this is due to the police campaign or merely to economy.

FORTUNE SMILES ON ARTIST
Man Who Drew on Sidewalk a Successful Exhibitor.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 25.—One of London's numerous sidewalk artists, who draw and paint in the streets to attract pennies from the pockets of pedestrians, has risen to fame and had his works exhibited at the Redfern Gallery, in Old Bond street.

He is G. Bissill, a miner, who saw service in France. After the war, being out of employment, he took up the occupation of daily drawings on the pavement, and sat with upturned hat to catch small coins. His skill eventually was recognized by artists who had fared better in life, and recently he was invited to exhibit a number of his drawings.

SIX-STORY EDIFICE TO BE ERECTED BY ST. LOUIS CLUB

Plans for New Building Approved by Members — Completion by Fall of 1926 Expected.

STRUCTURE WILL COST $1,250,000

Design Based on English
Adam Style—Site Is at Kingshighway and Maryland Avenues.

A six-story building of simple and pleasing design will be erected on the lot at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland avenue for the St. Louis Club. Its style will constitute a harmonious addition to the beautiful and magnificent structures, and it will provide a place for the entertainment of the city's distinguished visitors.
Plans were approved by members of the club, meeting yesterday at the office of M. E. Singleton, chairman of the Building Committee. Construction is to start shortly and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy by early autumn of 1926. The Building Committee recently toured Eastern cities with one of the architects to gain ideas for the building.

Fire Ruined Old Structure.
This structure will replace the old one at 3633 Lindell boulevard,
which was ruined by fire on Jan.
13. It will represent an investment of $1,250,000—$1,250,000 for building and the remainder for the lot and furnishings. The 216,200-foot lot, as has been told, was bought for $235,000, and adjoins Hotel Chase, being the last vacant
section of the old Bixby home site.
The design is based on the English Adam style. White Bedford stone will form the walls. The architects are Mauran, Russell & Crowell. A loggia cut into the wall on the Kingshighway side will form the main entrance, while there will be an imposing entrance with driveway, on the Maryland avenue side. Frontage of the building on Kingshighway will be 144 feet and on Maryland 130 feet. At four sides will be open to light and air with views of Forest Park and a beautiful residential district from all three sides.

An innovation of design is the arrangement for cutting off the ballroom and kindred sections from the rest of the club for private parties, to avoid disturbing either party or club, but with the possibility of throwing all facilities together for large club affairs, such as the customary parties on Valedictorian night and New Year's eve.

Facilities for Women.
Club members will have elevators and stairs in the center of the building, reached from the main entrance. Elaborate facilities for women will be provided, reached through the Maryland avenue entrance. All service arrangements are to be concentrated in the southeast corner.

The high basement, virtually forming a seventh story, will include a large swimming pool, gymnasium, Turkish baths for men and women, squash courts and bowling alley. The main floor will have a lobby, private office, strangers' reception room, women's room, swimming pool, gallery and barber shop.

Reading and smoking rooms will face Kingshighway on the second floor, where will be also a 40x75-foot ballroom, two stories high;
the lounge and billiard room. On the third floor will be the women's lounge and dining room, card
rooms and the men's oyster bar.
A banquet room, with sunken center space, for facilitating arrangement of speakers' tables; other dining rooms and the kitchen will be on the fourth floor. Fifty-four sleeping rooms for members and guests, each of large size, will fill the fifth and sixth floors, with corner suites available for distinguished visitors. There will be a roof garden.

It will be possible to seat about 1200 persons on the fourth floor for large parties. Private parking space for automobiles will be provided in the rear.

The club has a membership of 600, and there are not many vacancies. A holding corporation will own the property, each member of the club taking a $1000 share of its stock. Another $600,000 will be provided through second-mortgage bonds which the members have agreed to invest in. The first mortgage will amount to $550,000. The old property on Lindell boulevard is being held at $300,000 and several organizations are considering its purchase.

JARDINE LAYS RAID ON WHEAT MARKET TO SMALL GROUPS

Agriculture Secretary Reviews Findings of Inquiry Into Recent Price Fluctuations.

HEAVY TRADING BY FEW PROFESSIONALS

Proofs Necessary for Conviction of Manipulation Have Not Thus Far Been Obtained.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Wide fluctuations recently in Chicago wheat market prices were due primarily to heavy trading of a small number of professional speculators, Secretary Jardine declared today in a review of the Department of Agriculture's investigation.

The professional operations, the secretary declared, were facilitated to a considerable degree by the large participation of the public in the material advance in prices which occurred in the last half of January.

Proof necessary for the conviction of persons who might be charged with manipulating prices has not thus far been obtained, the secretary said.

Secretary Jardine is determined to utilize the results of the investigation to institute whatever prosecutions might be justified, but he is concerned more particularly in the development of some method by which a repetition of destructive price changes may be avoided.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The government is determined to put an end to such raids as that attributed to Jesse L. Livermore of New York and Thomas Howell of Chicago, which smashed the wheat market and is credited with having made $22,000,000 almost overnight in the pool.

The Department of Agriculture studying elaborate reports of every transaction in the enormous wheat deal that produced a black Friday on March 13, and the government's attorneys are poring over the grain futures act of 1922 to see if it is broad enough to justify indictments. Section V of that act provides:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to deliver for transmission through the mails or in interstate commerce by telegraph, telephone, wireless or other means of communication any offer to make or execute, or any confirmation of the execution of, or any quotation, or report of the price of, any contract for sale of grain for future delivery or subject to the rules of any board of trade in the United States, for any person to make or execute such contract of sale, which may be used for (a) hedging or transaction in interstate commerce in grain or the products or by-products thereof, or (b) determining the price basis of any such transaction in interstate commerce, or (c) delivering grain sold, shipped or received in interstate commerce for fulfillment thereof."

A list of exceptions in law.

Exceptions are made where the seller is the actual owner of the grain dealt in, or where the Secretary of Agriculture shall have designated a board of trade in which the dealer is a member, which has provided against the dissemination of false, misleading, or knowingly inaccurate reports concerning crop market information, "cornering" the market.

The penalty for infraction of section V is a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

COMMUNIST SAYS CAPITAL IS ONLY TEMPORARILY STABILIZED

Leader Analyzes International Situation From Bolshevik Viewpoint.

MOSCOW, April 13.—Addressing a gathering of active members of the Moscow communist party yesterday, M. Stalin, one of the leaders of the party, analyzed the international situation from the Bolshevik viewpoint and said that the prospects of the failure of revolution in Western countries, Soviet Russia would continue to build a socialist state.

The temporary consolidation and stabilization of capitalism did not mean the end of revolution, he said, "Lenin's theory that we were passing through an epoch of world revolution has not lost its force."

It is true that capitalism has become stabilized, Stalin continued. The question now is which will defeat the other. Both forces

SIX 50-YEAR ST. LOUIS TURNERS AT JUBILEETelegram From Coolidge Is

bership in the St. Louis Turnverein were presented to six men at a dinner at St. Louis Turner Hall beginning the celebration of the diamond jubilee of the organization.Those who received diplomas were Henry Braun, August Gieser, Hugo Grahl, Fred Huser, A. E.
Kindervater and John Toensfeld.
Life memberships were awarded to 26 others."Second-rate" politicians were pointed to by Charles Nagel, Cabinet member under President Coolidge, as a menace if allowed free rein
in settling post-war problems.
Nagel spoke for Americanization beyond the veneer of speech and custom and paid his respects to the proof of patriotism among all products of "the melting pot" in the World War.Telegrams from President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes
were read by former Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm, who was toastmaster. George Seibel of Pittsburg, president of the State Supreme Court, presided. The National Speaker Turnerbund, outlined the history of turned societies from their beginning in Germany. Mayor Miller pointed out that the motto
of "a clean mind and a clean body"
was inimical to the gang spirit.Edward Barclay, former Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, in telling the history of the local Turnverein, sketched in its influence for a democracy of trained men. The first hall of the St. Louis Turnverein, between Market and Walnut streets east of Tenth street, purchased from the Barclay
family.A historical pageant of nine episodes, beginning with an Indian festival on the banks of the Mis-

Argentine to Export Gold.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, May 13.—The Argentine Government yesterday issued a decree permitting the exportation of gold. The decree is effective June 1. It is estimated about $22,000,000 will be released.
The exportation of gold from Argentine has been prohibited since 1914.

Monsignor Charles O'Brien Dies.

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, Minn., May 13.— Monsignor Charles O'Brien, rector of the American College at Rome, died
at a hospital here early today.
Death was due to a complication of diseases, resulting from an attack of influenza two years ago.
He was 43 years old.He had reached a certain temporary balance."But the stabilization of capitalism is not solid. The United States, England and France have been able to temporize to come to an agreement with regard to robbing Germany with what is called the Dawes plan. It is scarcely possible to think such a cultured proletariat
as exists in Germany will long consent to bear the yoke of the Dawes plan without revolting. Even the election of Von Hindenburg as President shows how uncertain are the efforts of the Entente regarding Germany."SERGT.

When the first indictments, recently quashed on a technicality, were found, the Government did not possess evidence of the Continental Trading Co. of Canada, from whose treasury, it is alleged, $223,500 in Liberty bonds passed to Fall's bank accounts, allegedly from Sinclair.It was evident yesterday from the volume of documentary evidence taken before the grand jury and the list of witnesses to be called later that Government counsel will include this evidence in seeking the new indictments. Indictments are sought against all the defendants for conspiracy and bribery.Owen J. Roberts and former Senator Pomerene, Government special counsel, announced they looked for the new indictments to be returned next week and believed it would be possible to go to trial by October or November.

MAY UPSET GEOLOGY THEORY

By the Associated Press.
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 13.—
Evidence supporting the theory that the skeleton of the huge mammoth found on San Miguel Island, is that of a mastodon, was given yesterday by D. B. Rogers of the Santa Barbara Natural History Museum and Capt. Bob Ord, who brought portions of the tusks ashore. The description of the teeth and jawbone given by Ord exactly fits that given by Rogers.Scientists at the museum are puzzled over the discovery and assert that if it proves to be a mastodon
it will disrupt the accepted sequence of geology on the Pacific Coast. Capt. Ord will return to the Island early next week to bring the jawbone and teeth here for study.Major Does His "Duty"

Is Step Towards World Disarmament.By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, May 13.—The governments represented at the conference on the control of traffic in arms and munitions, sitting in the Military Committee, have decided that the sale of armored trains shall not be subject to international supervision by license of publicity. The vote was 13 to 11.Thus armored cars or trains will be treated on the same footing as warships, submarines, airplanes and airships and will henceforth not be listed as armaments whose traffic concerns the international public.After excluding armored trains
yesterday the committee eliminated flame throwers, the use of which in war Hungary recently protested on the ground that under the Trianon treaty she had been for-bidden to employ them. The committee made no pronouncement of its views as to whether flame throwers should be used in warfare, but confined its action to excluding them from control.

Tanks still in list.

Tanks alone remain as the sole representative of the original list
a special heading and which before used in the draft convention under
a special heading and which before
the list was scaled down included warships, armored trains, airplanes
and tanks.In the controllable category,
however, there are numerous other instruments of warfare, such as artillery and munitions.With the delegates wondering how they would make public opinion understand the reasons for these exclusions, there was eager discussion of another development which plainly caused the greatest gratification in conference circles.
The American delegation was responsible for this, when Representative Theodore E. Burton made the announcement that the United States was willing to join in a convention that would compel all producing states to publish statistics regarding armaments. At first the full significance of the announcement did not reach the members of the conference, but when they appreciated its importance, they broke out in spontaneous applause.

Victory for Small Nations.

This was something the smaller countries have been contending for.
They were willing to adhere to a system of control and publicity which revealed to the world the extent of their armaments, if it were accompanied by similar publicity as to the armaments possessed by the big manufacturing countries.Many delegates characterized the American offer as a great moral impetus to world disarmament.
Some interpreted it as a move towards the goal of control of the private manufacture of arms which many countries, and especially France, want to see established as an accomplishment of control of the traffic in arms.The conference decided that governments must, either by the issue of a license or some other document, assume responsibility for armaments exported to foreign governments.

All delegates to the conference

have shown surprise at Burton's statement that the United States already is publishing statistics of the private manufacture of arms
and they are asking him for official publications giving the figures.Burton explained that the United States census law authorizes the publication of such statistics periodically and said he believed Congress will approve more frequent publicity.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Tribute and an Appeal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It seems hard to understand the fate of a man who has been so useful and so good a character, so useful and so good a man as young Francis Baumann, and allow the speed maniacs to go on—the next victim.

Mr. Baumann, though so young, only 26, had made a name for himself that will last; he was president of the organization, the United Workers for the Blind of Missouri, and many are the good deeds to his credit by way of help to these handicapped people, in many instances either getting the pension or having it restored after it had been lost to them on some technicality. He never refused his help when or where it was requested, and the party worthy. He spent the entire time of the last session of the Legislature in Jefferson City in the interests of the blind and accomplished what he went for.

The organization of which he was so worthy a member, composed almost entirely of blind people, will miss his leadership and co-operation; his family grief-stricken, that after all the hardships he had gone through to satisfy an ambition that he attained in one short moment all this should be ended.

Is there no remedy? The sacrifice of this young man would not be counted lost if only it led to the betterment of conditions here. We do not need new or more laws, there are too many now, and cause confusion, capable of so many loopholes of escape, as to be almost useless. Let us try to understand, then, the cause of some of them. I appeal to the women of St. Louis—the wives, mothers and sisters; do not wait until forced to go into this by the death of some one dear to you—then it will be too late to do you any good—but let us take this matter up at once. So by the way, there has been accomplished by the reform there is no limit to the possibilities. May this appeal find lodgment in the hearts of the people and be carried out until it is made safe for them to live in St. Louis.

MRS. M. W. HUETTE,
Treasurer, United Workers for the Blind.

Alderman Neun and Welfare Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your Sunday edition a letter signed "Republican Woman of the Twenty-Seventh Ward" refers to the cutting out of the appropriation for the legal aid and other social welfare activities. She stated that Mr. Miller voted with Mr. Neun and Mr. Neun to discontinue the appropriation of money for this branch of the service. I wish to state, in justice to Mr. Neun, that he was not in favor of this cut, and so expressed himself at the time; and we who are interested in these activities know that he at all times has been our champion when any legislation pertaining to these matters was before the Board of Aldermen. Therefore, I wish you would give this letter the same publicity as you did the one from the lady of the Twenty-Seventh Ward.

MRS. DOW.

A Horse's Depute.

After the fearful drubbing "Bee Man" administered to your bright young man on the editorial staff, I, in my childish way, expected your scribe would lay off nature topics for a while. But, God bless my soul, here he is back again shooting his face, and his words about the breeding of race horses. "Man O'War," he says, is a fearful failure at the stud because his first year's get have so far failed to win any good races. The early progeny of all the great sires of the past have never shown the same records achieved by the get of the stallion's mature year. Give "Man O'War" time before you render your verdict on his stud performances.

And it is ridiculous to call "Man O'War" "the greatest animal that ever won racing plates." Since racing began there have been but a handful of horses that can be called great, and one of them, "Scepter." If memory serves, was a mare.

Only your Ovidian young man would dare to label any one of them as the greatest. I can imagine "Man O'War" looking up from his comfortable paddock at Lexington and winking at a passing Post-Dispatch bee as he, with girlish laughter, wings her way to the red clover field.

Can't See the Irony.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to your editorial, "Great Grief," in Saturday's Post-Dispatch, I haven't the slightest doubt that the writer wouldn't risk rolling his hands with a Stone Mountain four-bit piece, or any other four-bit piece.

I am not old enough to know anything about the war except what I've been told, and I've been told all my life that the South was not licked but was cut off from supplies and was on the verge of starvation. Isn't there a difference in the meaning of these two words?

Personally I will sing "Dixie" as long as this tongue of mine will wag. I don't understand what you mean by saying we faithfully preserve our table habits unless you refer to the fact that Southern people do not eat at the same table with colored people. Say, how many Generals did the Grand Army of the Republic have down to put a quail on the table of the Confederacy before Lee was outwitted? Say, how many?

REBUKES TO MOSCOW.

Two rebukes to Soviet propaganda in foreign countries have just been administered. One of the first acts of Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, was to have a talk with Leonid Krassin, the Muscovite representative at Paris. Briand spoke sternly to Krassin about the existence of a propaganda service in the Russian Embassy and about the activities of Voline, the First Secretary. Of greater interest to the United States was the declaration of President Calles of Mexico that he will not permit Mexico to be used as a center of a Bolshevik offensive against this country. Calles was moved to this statement by a series of untoward incidents in Mexico City, including speeches in which the United States was attacked. As in France, the source of the propaganda has been traced to the Soviet diplomatic representative, Pestokovsky. Both Voline and Pestokovsky have been threatened with expulsion unless their habits change.

Meanwhile, in Russia, Gregory Zinovieff, a member of the ruling triumvirate, admits that the world revolution is beyond immediate vision. This pessimism is inspired largely by the German election of Hindenburg, and by the stupid and tragic affair at Sofia, which resulted in a violent white reaction. Assuredly, things are breaking badly for the ambitious men of Moscow. Since Lenin's death there have been many symptoms that the plans for world revolution have been revived with great energy, only to meet with disaster. Nor apparently has Moscow any scruples about directing the campaign from embassies and legations, which is a heinous and unforgivable breach of diplomatic usage. The Mexican situation is particularly interesting since Calles heretofore has been radical in his views. Perhaps his action is the result of quiet advice from Washington. At any rate, it was an important announcement for him to make, and it was issued only after lengthy consultation with leading men of Mexico. Besides being an act of friendship for the United States, Calles' stand begins an internal policy of respect for the rights of property. Quite apparently, the world is not ripe for the dictatorship of the proletariat, and as the Muscovite blunders multiply, that consummation is driven farther and farther into the horizon.

THE BEATING OF THE TOM-TOMS.

Joy reigns in Louisville as Derby Day approaches, but in the Kentucky bushes stalks old man Gloom. For, just as this is the season of highest enjoyment of the thoroughbred, so it is the time when the anti-race horse Jeremiah pleads most vehemently for the destruction of the sport. As an undertone to the excited babble around Churchill Downs, is the doleful wailing of professional reformers on the provincial hustings. While everyone who loves the sport of kings is giving himself up to gaiety and pleasure, the reformers are canvassing the yokelry for votes to make this gaiety and pleasure impossible in the future.

For years the race track question has been at the core of Kentucky politics. It seems only a question of time before the farmers agree to kill racing, not so much from moral reasons as from economic ones. In the moral note will be loudly stressed. In return for an antiracing vote, there is being held out the promise of a heavy tax on Kentucky's coal industry, a tax which is expected to lighten the burden on the farmers. So that the race to be run next Saturday will be possibly one of the last derbies.

As an act of graciousness for the many thousands who get a great deal of carefree and innocent enjoyment from this event, the Jeremiahs might stop their moaning until the race is run. But graciousness is not to be expected from these advance agents of calamity, so their solemn undertone will continue to be heard, like the ominous beat of tom-toms under the lyricism of violins.

MCMILLAN AS A CIVILIZER.

Sir William Northrup McMillan, who died at Nice last month, and whose career as a former St. Louisan and a successful American was told somewhat fully, was chiefly known here for his activities as a hunter of big game in East Africa, the country of his adoption.

But the East African Standard, published in the district where the McMillan estate is situated, calls attention to his many achievements as an energetic public-spirited worker, giving time and thought, as a member of the colony, to public questions; as a planter, encouraging the production of staple crops suitable to the soil and climate, and during the war, in the Royal Fusiliers, doing the war work assigned to him with great ability. After the war he devoted time and personal effort to the rehabilitation of ex-service men. He was also a valued member of the Legislative Council for the district, and was the first person to begin the development of the Loigorian gold fields.

In short, this virile and generous man was an all-around civilizer, who left his impress upon two continents and whose loss is felt not only on account of his brilliancy but because of his real service to those whom opportunity brought within his sphere of activity.

WHAT PRINCETON MEN ARE EARNING.

A survey of Princeton graduates of 1915 shows that today, 10 years after they received their sheepskins, they are earning an average of $7503 a year. Only one man of this class is earning nothing, but he is a graduate student. The highest money winners are the men engaged in manufacturing. Twenty-six of these earned an average of $12,435 a year. Next comes banking and investment, which yield 43 men an average of $12,312 yearly. The earnings of ministers and teachers are at the foot of the list. The nine ministers are averaging $3133, while the 16 engaged in education are earning an average of $2825.

These figures do not include the not inconsiderable unearned income of the class of 1915, which brings the total average income up to $10,492. In its first year out of college, the class of 1915 averaged only $805 a year. Five years later it was earning an average of $2454. During the last five years progress has been rapid, the average income tripling. The next 10 years will probably see even greater progress.

Certainly the Princeton grads of this vintage are doing well, though it would be interesting to know what percentage of their success is due to actual academic training. A close analysis of individual cases might be disappointing in this regard, yet it is indisputable that four years at a university of Princeton's standing and educational resources greatly increases a man's chances for success.

POISONED SOURCES OF LEGISLATION.

In a special article in Sunday's Post-Dispatch former Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts names as the insidious forces trying to contaminate legislation in Congress the various forms of propaganda, the paid lobby, social pressure and the executive patronage club.

So far as the social lobby is concerned the public is helpless. If a Senator lacks the strength to resist the clamor of his social set, or if this character of influence is exerted through a member of his family, there is nothing to be done about it except to judge the official by the votes he casts on given measures.

With the other sources of contamination the public may concern itself to some purpose. A man so sophisticated enough to have become a Senator, of course, is not likely to be deceived by any sort of propaganda. But he may be susceptible to its pressure. If his constituents are deceived it is not easy for him to undeceive them. What unthinking portions of the public are likely to do is well typified in the case cited by Mr. Walsh. After an address by Mr. Dawes on the Senate rules the Boston Chamber of Commerce, without hearing the other side of the argument, unhesitatingly endorsed his position, and, Mr. Walsh supposes, deluged their Senators with letters further pressing the case.

The mob psychology of citizen assemblies following an ex parte presentation of an argument by a popular speaker is dangerous and may easily become a discouragement to Congressmen who want to act on their convictions.

For the paid lobby Mr. Walsh favors a system of registration and publicity, but says efforts to obtain it have been of no avail. The lobby, of course, if checked by restrictive measures in one place, would break out in another. The only cure for the lobby is the public official with the strength of character to keep the lobbyist where he belongs. If the people could be made to realize the cold, mercenary character of the tariff lobby, for instance, the effect of which is to tax their own necessities of life, they would be better prepared to counteract its influence by supporting their representatives in resisting it.

The executive control over Congress through patronage is a hard thing to combat while congressional elections hinge to so great an extent on patronage. There is one phase, however, which can be remedied. This is the lame-duck congressional session which makes it possible for defeated members hoping for Federal appointments to become the supine creatures of the President. The Norris resolution to end this situation by constitutional amendment was passed by the Senate. Why has there been no action on it in the House? That is a question with which it is the public's business to concern itself.

REASSURING SYMPTOMS.

It was, it will be noted, the black, gold and red flag of the republic, not the imperial red, white and black, which draped the table at which Hindenburg took the oath of office. And in the short oath, it was the people and the Constitution to which the old warrior pledged himself. Hohenzollernism was in the wings, but the republic held the stage. Such are the reassuring symptoms attendant upon the inauguration of the infant democracy's first popularly elected chieftain.

SCIENTIFIC MIRACLES.

Whatever may be the outcome of the present discussion as to the possibility of certain so-called miracles which have been cherished as a basis for religious faith, it cannot be denied that we are now living in an era of scientific miracles, as astounding as anything related as occurring in ancient times.

A few days ago, the P.N.-9, a naval seaplane, easily kept spinning along the "airways" for more than 28 hours, although it weighed no less than nine tons. And it probably could have kept aloft many more hours if it had been refused while in flight, a feat that has been accomplished with other airships. We hurl many tons of metal, steered by men, through the invisible air, propelled by an invisible and almost imponderable gas, for many hours, without an accident. Here is the unseen and mysterious grip of a form of nature's energy, harnessed to man's service. We can explain how we do it. But how nature aids is a matter of theory, that is to say, a plausible guess. It is miraculous.

And now we have accomplished the miracle of sending pictures by wireless across a wide stretch of the Pacific, relaying the controlled energy to land lines and wireless stretches above the land, until these infinitesimal and invisible dots and dashes finally completed their instantaneous journey from the Hawaiian Islands to New York, where they were halted and made visible, arranging themselves into a picture, the facsimile of the one that formed the model in Honolulu, 5117 miles away. Is not this a marvel that should make us feel that nothing is impossible?

We may be proud, indeed, of such feats. But we must also not forget to be humble, in the knowledge of how little we really know, after all, as to the why and wherefore of these energies of nature we are using. We can simply arrange the material and supply the conditions. We must let nature, the invisible unknown, do the rest.

"DON'T TAKE THAT COLLAR BUTTON."

(Apologies to Harry G. Smith.)

A ragged bum was sitting once
Within a swell cafe.
The music it was playing very grand.
A haughty waiter said: "You dunce,
You damstie better pay Or I'll throw you out the window on your hand."

The bum gazed at the chicken bones and mutton.
His countenance was pale and drawn with pain:
And holding in his hand a collar button
The patrons wept as he sang this refrain:
REFRAIN.

"Don't take from me that button!"
That dear friend of long ago!
It has stood by me when life's hard path
Was dark.

It's been with me through thick and thin
For thirty years or so.
Since leaving home in dear old Mena, Ark.
He sang to them of country and of city.

Of mulling crowds and savage jungles wid.
And then a solemn stanza from that ditty (close harmony):
"Oh! fireman, save my child!"

The song that made the stage a better place.
Right shortly it will occupy this space—
"Only a Poor Chorus Girlie." J. A.

Sir: After an unsuccessful collar button search, which put me to work late this
a. m., I take exception to these birds claiming to have everlasting collar buttons.

What is this—a lying contest? No man whose Adam's apple is functioning properly will ever keep a collar button 23, 33 or 43 years. Perhaps these so-called collar buttons are in the form of moles or warts on the neck. If so, these men should be disqualified from the Mammoth Collar Button Lying Contest. However, with all due respect to these gentlemen, I feel that they are to be envied only for their ability to tell a lie.

ADAMS ZAPPLE.

A Chicagoan tells the Advertising Clubs
of the World, who are in session at Houston, that the retail business needs less headache. He has thought out a scheme for the spectacle of a two-ton truck delivering a pair of ladies' gloves or a 10-cent tin of tobacco some six or eight miles from the store, with a man on the steering wheel
and one on the engine, must in time prompt somebody to say something.

Sir: The classic contrast of the patent medicine ads between "before" and "after," positively fades into similarity alongside the before and after pronouncements of Vic Miller. Contrast the sad air of resignation to expediency pervading his City Club speech with the fierce white flame of purity affecting his campaign. Then nothing could possibly withstand the ardor of his crusading spirit. Now he can say: "Much of the time it is difficult for those in charge of government to reply to these criticisms because some of them are well founded." And again: "Those who have studied our government and the manner in which it is conducted realize that a 100 per cent government is an impossibility."

Thus early does the doughty knight of righteousness put down his sword and reach forth his tiring arms for a martyr's crown.
'Tis sad, indeed. And he was so young.

SPECTATOR.

INTRODUCING POKEBERRY SCHOOL.

(Aurora, Mo., Advertiser.)

We have been reading of Widows Valley, Bachelor Hill and Hobson Hollow, but have you ever heard of Hoot Owl Hollow?
Hoot Owl Hollow is noted for having the smallest school district in Barry County.
It enumerates four pupils, has a frame house and is called Pokeberry. It was named from the poke stalks that grow around the house, and of late a log hut was in use. The patrons of the district built the house of logs by having them and used pokeberries on a chalk line to line
the logs so as to have a straight line to hew by; therefore it took the name Poke-berry.

Sir: A high school instructor in Tennessee has been indicted for teaching evolution and even his sanity questioned on that ground. Since this sort of thing seems to be in harmony with the majority of that community, why not abandon the State of Tennessee entirely to the fundamentalists and their ilk? An exchange of (intellectual) prisoners should be effected whereby every thinking person in Tennessee would come to the United States, which in turn would send all of its morons into Tennessee.

The exchange would be very unequal in numbers, of course, but not in value. If the one State were not large enough, Kentucky might be used for the overflow, as it also seems to have an arrested mental development.

PROMETHEUS.

Sir: We learn from the want ads that this is for sale:

PEASANT BIRD—Cahany $53W.

Is it a genuine proletarian? POET.

Sir: Here is a want ad from your own
Post-Dispatch:

And here is a sign from Vencovo's University Inn:

BANK'S CASH CHECKS

Nut Set.

Do I get a number? J. A. P.

Sir: If fundamentalism means getting back to fundamental beliefs, then the negro woman who killed her neighbor for sprinkling "voodoo powder" on her doorstep is a fundamentalist of the first water.

By the way, Fitzpatrick wins again with his cartoon, "Law and Order in Tennessee."
The abysmal dismay he contrives to put into the monkey's countenance is a touch of comic genius.

PROMETHEUS.

TO ANDREAS AMATI OF CREMONA.

When I kneel still before the Eucharistic rail.

My faithless heart is silent, prayers and praises fail.

Last night upon familiar strings tight
wound

Upon the dearest wood I've ever seen,
Carved by hands which long have laid me down.

I drew the bow and lo, a gentle sound
Breathed soft and sighed and sweetly sang to melt

Into a prayer my heart full long had felt.

VETERANS HAVE GALA DAY AT HOSPITAL

Wheel-Chair Parade Is Feature of Entertainment Given by Former Service Men.

The men at Veterans' Hospital No. 32 deserted their wards yesterday and took to the grounds to celebrate National Hospital day, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale. Completely unsetting all the traditional air of moroseness which is supposed to characterize a hospital atmosphere, the veterans arranged a program that made of the affair a gala occasion. These veterans staged a performance that held the interested attention of about 8000 persons who made their way to the hospital to watch the ex-soldiers celebrate. Nor was the martial air altogether lacking, for the Sixth Infantry band from Jefferson Barracks was there playing most un-martial airs.

Wheel Chair Parade.

The great event of the day was the "wheel chair parade." Seven wards of the institution participated, each ward conceiving its own "wheel chair" float, building it and furnishing the motive power, which was a veteran in a wheel chair in the midst of the float.

There were all sorts of floats. One was a replica of an army ambulance, true in every detail down to a doll on it, a Boy Scout at the wheel and a little nurse beside him. Then there was an airplane, ultra-modern with its radio equipment; an African Zulu boat, a reproduction of the hospital, the file and drum and flag of '76, a first aid float and another of the Goddess of Liberty. After a keen scrutiny of the parade, the silver loving cup was given to Ward D, the tubercular ward, for its ambulance, and second prize, a radio set, went to Ward F and its airplane.

Other Competitions.

After this came an individual wheel chair competition, a comical float competition, a comical costume parade, a parade of the "miserable original costumes," a three-legged race, potato race, sack race, and a baseball game between the Veterans' team and the Sixth Infantry nine.

There also was a "chewing the rag" contest for members of the hospital personnel. Several men lined up before the crowd and began hurriedly to "eat" long strings of twine in a race to get the piece of candy on the end of each string. Someone won the competition, but it is impossible to give the boy's name as the reporter left, hours afterward, the winner was still trying to get the twine to release his tonsils and was unable to make an articulate statement as to his identity.

HINDENBURG'S SPEECH BOLSTERS REPUBLIC

Friends of Constitution Agree
He Changed Spirit of Germany.

By SAMUEL SPEWACK,
Berlin Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Publishing Publishing Co. (New York World
Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, May 13.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has created a new Germany, and has buried the old.

Still and expressionless as a statue in Berlin's avenue of victory, he took the format oath of allegiance to the Republic yesterday. He pressed the hand of the Socialist Reichstag President, Loebe, who delivered the oath. Later he sang the praises of another Socialist, a soldier, Fritz Ebert, who drove Von Hindenburg's beloved Kaiser into exile. In four distinct proclamations he slashed monarchist hopes and Republican fears.

Von Hindenburg will preserve the Republic. His oath he announced: "Duty before right." A soldier had triumphed over monarchists. He had been elected President, and his proclamations said in practically so many words that he would not violate his oath by degenerating into a regent.

We who know do not believe that Von Hindenburg harbors a revolution against the Republic. Those who heard him speak could not question his sincerity. He had placed the Republic upon a surer foundation than it has had since its inception.

When the day was done and the speechmaking over, even the most skeptical of German Republicans agreed that Von Hindenburg had achieved a miracle. He had taken the old Germany and thrown it into the soul of the new. A soldier had done his duty as he had seen it, and once more the man with the face of a statue had made history.

Custom Does Not Call for Congratulations From U. S.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Coolidge has sent no message of congratulation to Field Marshal von Hindenburg upon his inauguration.

The State Department, it is indicated, has taken no official cognizance of the event. At both the White House and State Department it was the feeling that congratulations are not called for when the executive of any republic takes office.

Customarily, congratulations are sent to presidents of Cuba and some of the South American countries, but the practice has not been universal. State Department officials, consequently, felt there was no occasion for a formal message from this Government to Von Hindenburg. The American Charge d'Affaires at Berlin will take such action as is proper, they said.

Hindenburg Receives Delegations and German Officials.

By the Associated Press.
President von Hindenburg, after his first night in the executive mansion, had a busy program today.

He received, among others, a delegation from the National Council which represents Germany's federated states, and the Prussian Premier, Herr Braun.

The President's program for today also provided for reception of the officers of the Reichstag, Defense Minister Gen. von Seeckt and Admiral Zenker, representing the country's defense, and representatives of the railways, Reichsbank, the Berlin Magistrate and the Police presidency.

Japanese Emperor Sends Message.
Messages of congratulations from the heads of foreign nations began to arrive soon after the inauguration ceremony was over. Those heard from were the Kings of Sweden and Denmark, the Emperor of Japan and the Presidents of Argentina and Finland.

Yesterday was the first time since Nov. 18, 1919, that the Field Marshal had entered the Reichstag building. Then he and Gen. Ludendorff went in response to an urgent summons from a parliamentary inquiry board which was investigating the German General Staff relative to unrestricted submarine warfare and the extent to which it was familiar with the policy of mediation and the efforts of the late President Wilson in that direction.

On that occasion Von Hindenburg and his Quartermaster General were summoned to give an account of their stewardship as leaders of the German armies.

At a luncheon given by retiring Acting President Simons, Von Hindenburg said of the late President Ebert:

"His work in restoring order after the collapse of Germany is after the collapse of Germany is indisputable. This is to be gratefully recognized by the German people, even by his political opponents. Always he sought to serve the German people faithfully."

Baron Von Stumm Dies.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, May 13.—Baron Ferdinand von Stumm, long identified with the German diplomatic service, died here today at the age of 82. He was formerly German Ambassador at Madrid and was a member of a well-known industrial family in Lorraine.

Major-General Arthur Murray Dies.
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Major-General Arthur Murray, retired, former commander of the Western Department, died at his home here yesterday after a prolonged illness. He entered the army from Missouri in 1870 and retired on account of age in 1915.

Briton's Charge That Morals of U.S. Youth Have Been Degraded By Prohibition Stirrs Up Fire

Head of Public Health Service and Methodist Board Assail Sir A. Maurice Low's Conclusions Reached at Dinner Tables.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Sir A. Maurice Low, the Washington correspondent of the London Morning Post, has drawn fire from two sides by recent communications to his newspaper on the subject of prohibition. His assertion that the use of narcotics in this country has greatly increased under the dry regime, is challenged by Gen. Hugh S. Cumming of the United States Public Health Service, while the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church takes him to task for his conclusion, derived in part from conversations at Washington dinner tables, that "the morality of youthful America has been degraded by prohibition."

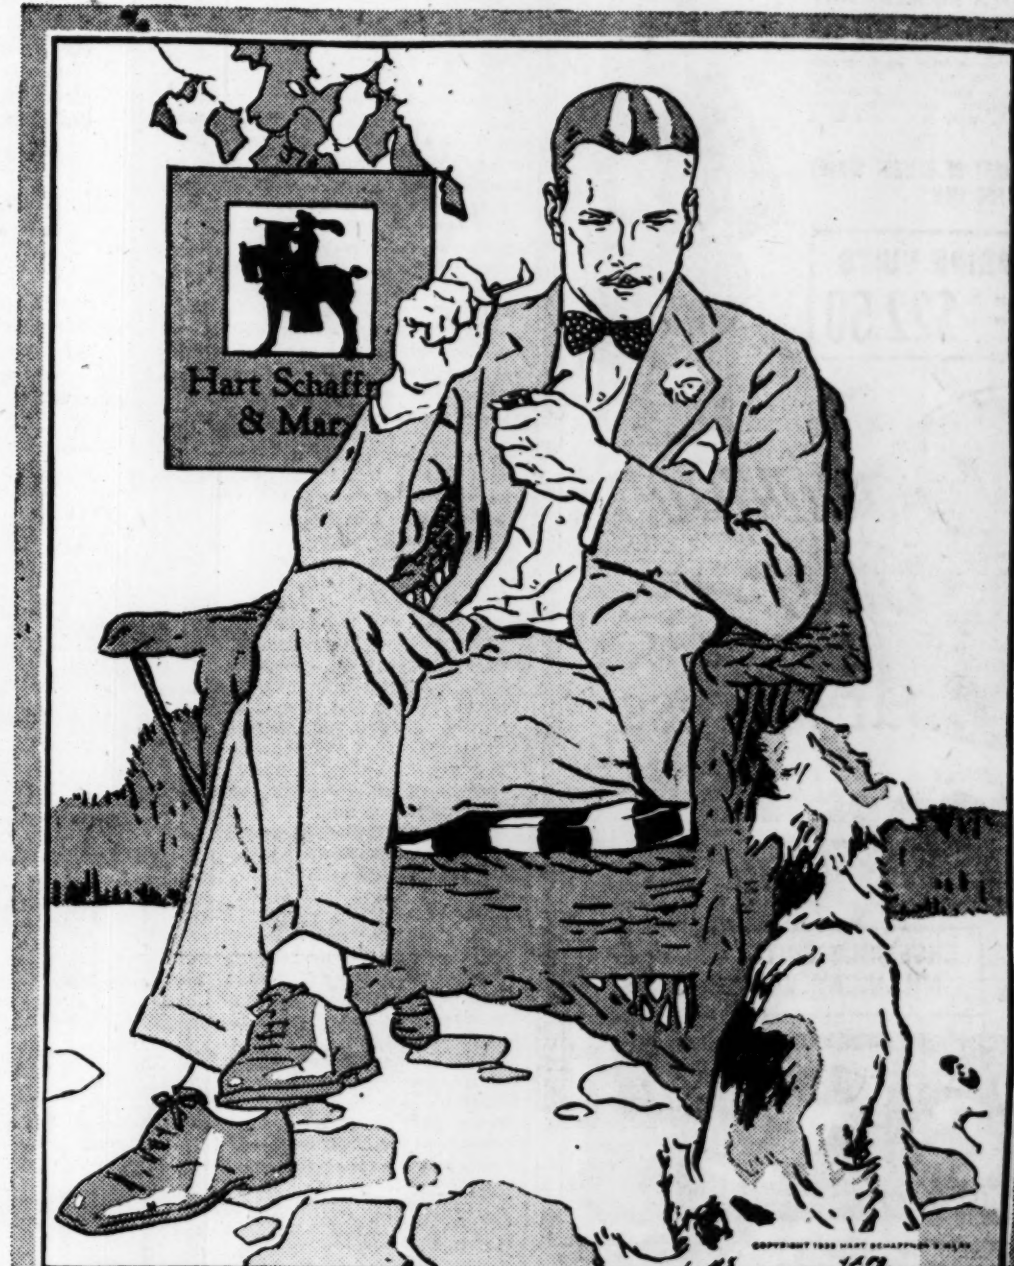

"Although there has been an apparent increase in the use of drugs in this country," said Gen. Cumming, "all available evidence shows indisputably that there has been a great decrease in the last several years." The "apparent" increase is attributed by Cumming to the greater activity of Government agents in arresting and prosecuting violators of the narcotic laws.

When he opined that the mothers were wrong and should make their daughters quit drinking, his informant, according to his article, replied: "Easy enough to say, but since prohibition all the girls are drinking, and you can't stop them."

Whisky and a Cigarette.
This woman, Sir Maurice said, agreed with his other informants that before prohibition "no girl, jealous of her reputation, knew the taste of whisky, and only sipped half a glass of claret or some other light wine at the dinner table, but now virtually all the nice young girls take their cocktails before dinner; champagne, if offered to them, at dinner, and whisky and a cigarette when they sit out between dances."

The woman, Sir Maurice said, agreed with his other informants that before prohibition "no girl, jealous of her reputation, knew the taste of whisky, and only sipped half a glass of claret or some other light wine at the dinner table, but now virtually all the nice young girls take their cocktails before dinner; champagne, if offered to them, at dinner, and whisky and a cigarette when they sit out between dances."

But no English reader need jump to the hasty conclusion that prohibition is a bad thing," Sir Maurice concluded. "On the contrary, it is a very good thing—for the manufacturers of pocket flasks, and for the purveyors of narcotics. Mr. Porter, notwithstanding, the consumption of narcotics in the United States, according to competent and unprejudiced observers, has greatly increased since the passage of the prohibition law."

$4761 DRY LAW FINES AT EAST ST. LOUIS

One Saloonkeeper Assessed $1500 and Sentenced to 10 Months in Jail.

Heavy fines aggregating $4761 were assessed on guilty pleas and convictions yesterday in Federal Court at East St. Louis in violation of the prohibition law.

John F. O'Connell, who told Judge English he had operated a saloon at Broadway and Front street in East St. Louis for 22 years, was fined $1500 and sentenced to 10 months in jail on his plea of guilty to three counts. He had twice before been fined on a charge of possession. Prohibition agents raided his place the last time on April 29.

Bruno J. Mathews of Kankakee, Ill., who, according to information supplied by his attorneys, stands high in the community in which he lives, is a member of the County Board of Supervisors and a deacon in his church, was fined $600 on three counts. According to the information, prohibition officers succeeded in buying beer and whiskey in a confectionery operated by Mathews and seized an additional quart for evidence.

Leniency for Storm Sufferer.
S. E. Dowdy, a hotel clerk of Murphysboro, Ill., who said he has a large family, was fined $250. His fine, except $1, was remitted when he explained that he was in want, having lost all his possessions in the recent tornado.

Verdicts of guilty were returned in two cases based on affidavits made by Ku Klux Klan investigators in the St. Clair County clean-up campaign last spring. Ovid Jones, Klan investigator, testified he had bought intoxicating liquor at the poolroom operated by William Handley at 726 Trendley avenue, which the latter denied.

The date set by testimony for the purchase was February 13, 1924. Affidavits were sworn out on March 22 and the defendant was arrested in April last, testifying he knew nothing of the case until his arrest. At the Marshal's office it was said the defendant was not found until last month.

Poolroom Owner Sentenced.
H. C. Jackson, owner of a poolroom at 801 Pigott avenue, East St. Louis, was found guilty and sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $300 on three counts on evidence supplied by investigators of the clean-up squad. He was accused of being intoxicated while on the stand yesterday by District Attorney Walcott.

Others who pleaded guilty and the amount of their fines are: S. Longton, Kankakee, Ill., three counts, $500; J. J. Quigley of Kankakee, two counts, $500; John Cheponis, saloonkeeper of 1024 North Thirteenth street, East St. Louis, one count, $300; William Woods, Renault, Ill., one count, $300; and J. Duncan of Kankakee, two counts, $500.

FORMER CONVICT IS GIVEN SENTENCE OF TEN YEARS

Two sentences, one of 10 years in the penitentiary for robbery in the first degree, and another of five years for attempted robbery to run concurrently, were meted out to William L. Kendrick, 32 years old, a former convict, upon pleas of guilty in Circuit Judge Frey's court yesterday.

The defendant was also charged with being a habitual criminal, under which the record would have permitted the court to hand down a sentence of life. In that respect, Judge Frey remarked he thought the defendant, whose wife and three children were in court, was getting off lightly.

Kendrick admitted holding up the drug store of John Hanneke at 5400 Southwest avenue, the night of March 8, and robbing the proprietor of $50, and also of an attempt to hold up a citizen. He admitted being sentenced in 1914 to two years for burglary, in 1914 to two years for robbery, and in 1921, two years for larceny from the person.

U. S. JAPANESE LIQUOR TREATY

TOKIO, May 13.—Negotiations are proceeding between the United States and Japan for a liquor treaty, similar to that concluded between the United States and Great Britain. Under the proposed treaty, it was stated at the foreign office, Japan would permit the search of Japanese vessels outside territorial waters, in return for which Japanese vessels would be allowed to carry liquor, under certain conditions, in American waters.

The treaty would not apply to the Philippine Islands. It is understood the Japanese Government has virtually agreed to the terms of the proposed treaty, although thus far an agreement has not been signed.

Action Heads Italian Navy Staff.

ROME, May 13.—Premier Mussolini has appointed Vice Admiral Baron Alfred Acton as head of the General Staff of the Italian navy. Baron Acton has had a long and distinguished career, fulfilling numerous missions abroad. He served as the Italian naval delegate at the Washington Armament Conference. He occupied an important post in Premier Giolitti's Government and distinguished himself in the naval battle of May 17, 1917, when the Austrians were forced to take refuge in Cattaro.

CONSTIPATION means WEAKNESS

Constipation is practically universal among civilized human beings. It is a national curse causing inefficiency and physical unpreparedness. It causes disease, premature old age, lessens endurance and resistance, and many times fatal illness is directly traceable to its obnoxious results. The clear eye, healthy look, vim, vigor and vitality can be had only when the bowels are free and are moving regularly.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

The Family Laxative

—promptly relieves constipation. It is not a bitter medicine nor a gripping, nauseating, uncomfortable physic. It is a pleasing liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and aromatics that Dr. Caldwell, with his long and extensive practice, found effective and an aid to Nature in performing her proper functions when the bowels were mistreated through improper food, lack of exercise, and indifference to physical sanitation.

When CONSTIPATED, take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

You DO NOT Have to Subscribe for ANY Newspaper to Get THIS Policy

Heretofore, Travel Accident Insurance Policies, LESS LIBERAL IN TERMS, have been offered to readers of other St. Louis newspapers, but the policy holder had to subscribe for the newspaper offering the policy.

This Post-Dispatch offer does not require that you subscribe for any newspaper, so the risk of losing your insurance following a stopped subscription is not present in this offer. Your purchase of the policy for one dollar, accompanied by the application clipped from this advertisement completes the transaction.

This policy is not sold by solicitors.

No Physical Examination—No Restriction as to Residence —Anywhere in the United States or Canada

Merely send in your application with a dollar and a policy will be mailed to you—that will protect you for a full year without any other requirement. You will not be asked to make any further payment. The transaction will be closed and your insurance will not depend on whether or not you buy a newspaper or pay for it monthly.

This Policy Protects You as Follows:

Accidents in street cars, busses, taxicabs, steamboats, railroad trains, private automobiles, buggies, wagons, or while walking or standing on the streets, or by the falling of the outer walls of buildings, or by certain accidents incident to tornadoes or lightning or the burning of certain buildings. (The specific coverage is definitely fixed by the plain, understandable language in the policy.)

An Exceptional Policy at an Unusually Low Price

This Policy, at a cost of only $1.00, offers you protection in amounts ranging from $5000 to $500 for death or injury in accidents sustained while traveling in street cars, omnibuses, automobiles, wagons, railroad cars or steamboats, or while walking on the street, or in certain other accidents such as those caused by tornadoes, cyclones, lightning, as fully set forth in detail in the policy.

Policies will be issued to persons between the ages of 10 years and 70 years, except those who are blind or deaf, or so infirm, physically, that they may not travel with ordinary safety.

A thorough examination of policies of this type has been made to secure the best obtainable, and, as a result, arrangements have been made with the Federal Life Insurance Company of Chicago, established twenty-five years, and with assets of more than SEVEN MILLION, FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, to issue these policies promptly on receipt of the Application Blank and One Dollar.

Here are some of the advantages offered FIRST in St. Louis by the POST-DISPATCH:

- 1—You need not subscribe for any newspaper.
- 2—The Cost of the Policy Is Only One Dollar Per Year.
- 3—The maximum indemnity is $5,000.
- 4—Members of Police and Fire Departments and their families are eligible.
- 5—There is no risk of losing the insurance following a stopped subscription.

Caution—No policy of this type, and at this cost, can protect you against ALL accidents

These policies are specially prepared with an aim to protect against certain kinds of accidents common in the life of today. Necessarily, they give only limited coverage. The language of the policy offered by the Post-Dispatch is plain enough for all to read and understand, but it is necessary, if misunderstanding or dispute is to be avoided, that all be cautioned to read the Policy Carefully.

The signed application and One Dollar will give you this protection for a year—renewable at expiration at the same cost.

So that no one may be misled, or misinformed, we point out that the policies do not offer indemnity for such common accidents as

A fall downstairs. Being struck with a falling object. Cuts, abrasions, sprains, etc., occurring at home or in places of employment.

Nor does this policy protect, while on duty, engineers, firemen or others engaged in operation of railroad trains, public conveyances, etc.

The coverage is definitely limited to the kinds of accidents enumerated in the policy itself.

EMERGENCY GARBAGE CONTRACT AWARDED

Jefferson Distributing Co. to Handle Disposal for Year at 24 Cents a Ton.

The Board of Public Service, following a closed session yesterday afternoon, awarded the one-year emergency garbage-disposal contract to the Jefferson Distributing Co. for 24 cents a ton.

The successful bidder offered the lowest estimate of the three who submitted figures last Friday. The bid of 24 cents is in contrast to $1.28 a ton, bid by the Jefferson Distributing Co. for disposal of the garbage on a five-year contract.

Following the awarding of the five-year contract several weeks ago to Charles L. Rea of Kansas City, at 74 cents a ton, the Jefferson Distributing Co. obtained an injunction against awarding the contract, and while the matter is in the courts the city is forced to have recourse to an emergency contract.

The bid for the one-year contract was submitted on a revised contract drawn up by Mayor Miller himself. Last Friday he criticized the draft of the one-year contract on the ground that it did not assure the city that the bidder would carry the garbage from the river front where the city delivered it. The revised contract carried a clause to that effect.

Meanwhile, Circuit Judge Huck of St. Genevieve had issued a temporary injunction against the Jefferson Distributing Co. ordering it not to dump garbage on Hog Island where it has been used to feed hogs. Yesterday the Supreme Court issued a temporary writ of prohibition directing Judge Huck not to proceed further with the injunction matter until it had had an opportunity to hear the case.

The garbage-disposal investigation ordered Saturday by Mayor Miller was not discussed by the Board of Public Service at the meeting yesterday. The Mayor's communication directing the inquiry has been referred by the board to Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks. He reported he had been working on the investigation since Sunday but was not ready to announce the result of his findings nor the nature of the investigation.

TO HOLD UP CONTRACTS FOR FILMS IN FIGHT ON 'TRUST'

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, May 12.—First blood in the war on the so-called film trust was drawn at the opening session of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association when exhibitors from all parts of the country gave assurance that they would hold in abeyance the making of picture contracts for the ensuing summer pending the proposed alignment with independent producers.

By the Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 12.—The Warner Brothers motion picture interests, in support of the move for independence in production and distribution, announce a nationwide newspaper advertising campaign to cost $500,000 and plans for the erection of a first-run theater in every large city where such a course is necessary to break the monopoly of the "trust."

As explained by Harry Warner, president of the organization, the condition which independent producers and exhibitors face is this: The so-called trust of big producers controls from 60 to 65 per cent of all the film theaters in the country. A producer outside this group, therefore, faces a steadily diminishing outlet for his films, while the small independent exhibitor faces absolute extinction.

CONDITION OF FAMILY IS REPORTED TO JUVENILE COURT

Liquor Raid Reveals Eight Persons, Including 14-Year-Old Unwed Mother, Live in Two Rooms.

An investigation by the juvenile court of conditions in a North St. Louis saloon building where a 30-year-old grandmother, a 14-year-old unwed mother and seven children live in rooms next to a small liquor manufactory, was asked yesterday by Police Captain Loepker.

The conditions were disclosed in a raid several days ago on a saloon at 3825 North Broadway. In a rear room policemen found a small still, 10 cases of beer, a half gallon of whiskey and 10 gallons of mash.

In two rooms adjoining lives the family of a woman whose husband deserted her two years ago. With her live her seven children and a grandchild. The oldest child is an unwed mother and her six-month-old infant also lives in the two rooms. Capt. Loepker reports that the children are only partially clothed and that they make money by begging pennies from passersby in the neighborhood of their home.

Did You ever Ride with THIS Driver?

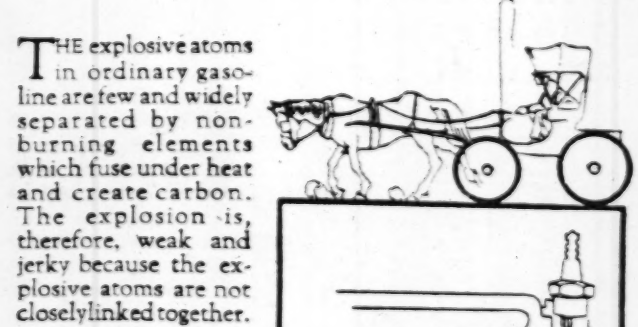

Or, ever Ride with THIS Driver?

Or, with THIS Driver?

HE grts and grts and grts the self starter! He violently pumps the choke. He pedals the accelerator like a six-day bicycle rider. The engine phuts and sputts. The car moves slowly for fifty feet. Another brief spasm of phuts and sputts, more pumping of the choke, and the car gets under way like a loaded freight train going up grade.

Says this Driver:
"The gas they sell you nowadays is rotten. Can't see how they get away with it. But I'll be darned if I'll buy doped gasoline and ruin my engine."

Years ago there were men who thought they were saving money by feeding a horse hay that was mostly straw. The horse had to eat so much feed to get nourishment that he overworked his innards, became rib-sided, droop-headed, drag-footed, a candidate for the glue-works.

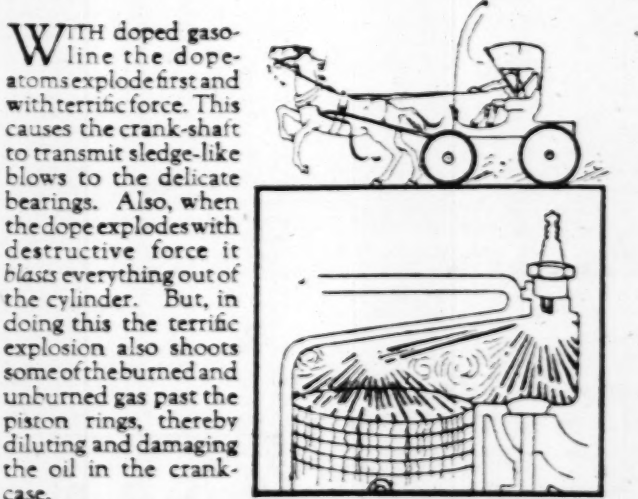

"Buy at the Sign of The Boy and Star"

HIS car starts with a lurch! Your head's yanked back. There are sounds like the dull gritting of teeth. The car jumps from first to second, yanked from second to third. As you speed up, you hear steel things go click-click and clock-clock, with an occasional thump. You have a feeling of being in a swing. A rush forward! A tenth-second pause! Another rush! Another pause! Yet you are apparently in constant motion.

Says this Driver:
"Great dope this! It's something new! Costs more than ordinary gasoline, but certainly has the pep. They tell me it will knock the carbon out and that I'll only use a third as much. I don't know what it's doing to the engine, but it certainly makes the old boat rattle along."

Years ago there were men who, when they wanted to show off an old plug so they could brag about, or sell her, shot a spoonful of dope down her throat. She'd tear and prance like an unbroken colt. Bust her check rein and a tug or two. Strike out with her front legs as if to break a world's record. Down the street she'd tear, but, you could feel a madness in her movement.

When the dope wore off she was a common horse. Worse than that, she was a sick horse. After a few such shots, good feed couldn't help her. She'd need a vet—or more dope.

"Next time you buy gasoline buy WHITE ROSE — You'll notice the difference"

WHITE ROSE GASOLINE

HE touches the starter! Instantly the first turns of the engine are picked up by the accelerator. The car moves off so evenly that you can't really tell just when the wheels start turning. Immediately the speed doubles, triples, quadruples — without noise, jerk or hesitancy. Soon you're sweeping along in a rush of air, lulled by a pleasant hum that is barely distinguishable. You ask, "What makes this car run so beautifully?"

Says this Driver:

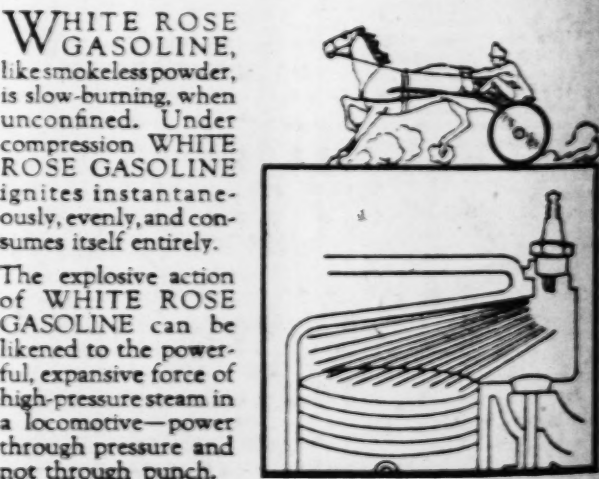

"I believe in taking the best care of my car. So I use only WHITE ROSE GASOLINE. It costs me three cents more per gallon than low-grade or ordinary gasoline, but no more than doped gasoline that tears the inside right out of a car."

"Seldom do I have carbon removed, and I'm sure that if my engine were absolutely perfect, which of course, is impossible, it would never have a speck of carbon."

"WHITE ROSE GASOLINE gives my engine the full measure of power it was designed to give—and the right kind of power—power that is smooth, silent, constant. I get more mileage than the maker told me I'd get on a gallon of gas, and never have I had any internal engine trouble."

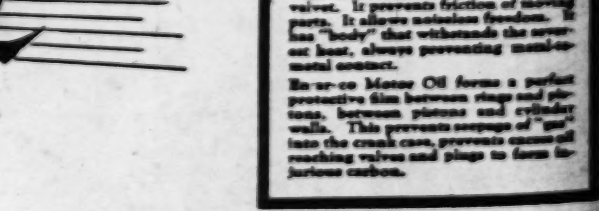

"My car has been on a diet of WHITE ROSE GASOLINE for three years. The boys at the service station looked her over last week and said she was in perfect shape. So I'm going to stick to WHITE ROSE GASOLINE. It costs three cents more a gallon, but is worth it!"

Years ago there were men who knew and loved fine horses. They kept them clean, bedded them well, drove them carefully, and fed them on the choicest oats and clover-hay. For years and years these sleek-coated animals stepped high and fast for their owners, and even when well along in years were sold at a fancy price.

WHITE ROSE GASOLINE, like smokeless powder, is slow-burning, under compression WHITE ROSE GASOLINE ignites instantaneously, evenly, and consumes itself entirely.

The explosive action of WHITE ROSE GASOLINE can be likened to the powerful, expansive force of high-pressure steam in a locomotive—power through pressure and not through punch.

En-ar-co Motor Oil Saves the Silk Surface of Polished Steel
En-ar-co Motor Oil is softer than velvet. It prevents friction of moving parts, it allows pistons to float, it keeps the crank case clean, it prevents the formation of carbon. En-ar-co Motor Oil forms a perfect protective film between rings and pistons, between pistons and cylinder walls. This prevents scoring of pistons the crank case, prevents scoring of valves and plugs to form injurious carbon.

LIVED ON SOUP? AND MILK FOR YEARS

Could Not Eat Any Solid Food. Could Not Sleep at Night on Account of Kidney Trouble and Lumbago. But Now on the Road to Recovery and Singing Praises to Herb Juice.

In a recent conversation with the Herb Juice man, Mr. George Williston, 707 North Sixth St., St. Louis, began, "I have suffered for 25 years with constipation, liver and kidney trouble. I never knew what it was to have a good night's sleep. I had terrible pains in my back and stomach, and suffered intensely with nervous indigestion. For several years," continued Mr. Williston, "I have lived on soup and milk and didn't dare eat any solid foods of any kind, owing to the fact that it caused me to have a very distressed feeling from gas. But after taking less than two bottles of your wonderful Herb Juice I can truthfully say that I feel like a new man. All my pains are gone; my kidneys are in splendid condition; I can eat anything I want and as much of it as I desire; my stomach is in excellent condition and my bowels are regular for the first time in years. And I owe all this wonderfully improved condition in my health to Herb Juice, the greatest laxative that I have ever used. I am and will always be grateful for an opportunity to recommend Herb Juice to anyone."

NEW DELMAR HEIGHTS

Delmar Avenue and North & South Road
7800 West on Delmar Avenue

Restricted to Residences
Lots 50x140—

Sewer, Water, Gas and Electric Sidewalks and Ciderized Streets

Prices $28 to $40 per Foot

At these prices, lots in New Delmar Heights are cheaper than other ground, without improvements, in the same neighborhood. For homes or for investments that will return handsome profits we recommend these lots without reservation.

The inevitable increase in values in New Delmar Heights lots, which is sure to come within the next few months, makes investment in them particularly attractive to those who do not care to speculate with their savings.

We will sell you a lot on very easy terms and lend you the money to build your home. Select the lot you want—then see us.

EDITH GOULD'S Own Story LIFE of a RICH GIRL

The Autobiography of a Daughter of One of America's Millionaires

By EDITH GOULD WAINWRIGHT.
Daughter of George J. Gould and Granddaughter of Jay Gould.

CHAPTER XV.

In this chapter I am going to try to show the way my mother tried to lessen the complications of running and keeping open three or four establishments at the same time. Each home had its more or less complete set of servants, but if Mamma expected a large party at one or another place these servants were brought from one house to another by train. You would be surprised to know how much stage managing and maneuvering this required.

When I hear people say they wish they had a large number of servants I always wonder if they realize how much added care and worry this would mean for them. Of course, it is very agreeable to be well waited upon, but there are drawbacks to having a large retinue dependent on one, and it requires skill and tact in managing so that friction is eliminated and every one is made willing and happy in his or her work.

Mamma had this tact and the ability to manage in a marked degree though she always supervised our various establishments without apparent effort.

First I will detail the staff of each house. Of course, next in command to Mamma, no matter in what house we were, was Miss Caroline Cortis, termed "Aunt Carrie" by us children. Occasionally her authority was resented by the governesses, whom she, by far, outranked. She was Mamma's aide-de-camp, and a busy woman she was, she engaged and discharged governesses and nurses, reported any naughtiness on the part of the children or laziness on the part of servants to Mamma. She wrote my mother's letters, opened her mail, answered her telephone calls. Mamma had no secrets from Aunt Carrie.

Often at eight-thirty in the morning she and Mamma would drive down to Washington Market in the station wagon and purchase food which they would bring back with them. Mamma thought that because her name was Gould the grocers and butchers uptown might raise the price of their wares to her, so she often resorted to this measure of going downtown and paying cash.

Then Aunt Carrie would rush all over New York looking for a spoon of thread to match a sample Mamma gave her. She was so conscientious that she would not come home until she had found that exact shade. Mamma had asked her to get. From morning till night she was busy doing one thing or another. Really the only dissipation I ever knew her to allow herself was the reading of a novel while she did up her hair in the morning.

If I call Aunt Carrie Mamma's aide-de-camp, I must name Philip Langford, irreplaceable Butler, major domo of No. 857 Fifth avenue, her first lieutenant. This remarkable man was invaluable to Mamma. He knew the history and value of every single art work my parents owned and there were considerable. He knew the period of each table service and when it should be used. He knew just what to say and when to say it Fruit Salad.

Dice canned pineapple, enough to make one and one-half cupsful, add one cupful canned grapes or one cupful diced apples, two oranges cut fine and three bananas which have been sliced. Let drain and serve with dressing made by mixing one teaspoonful sugar, is teaspoonful salt, is teaspoonful mustard, one tablespoonful flour, two beaten eggs and one cupful vinegar and cooking in double boiler until thick. One-half pint whipped cream should be beaten into dressing just before serving.

Crumb Griddle Cakes.

Scald one pint milk, pour it over 1½ cupsful of bread crumbs and one tablespoonful of butter and let stand until cool. Add one cupful flour, a pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls baking powder and two egg yolks, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Fry on hot griddle.

BEETS WITH LEMON JUICE.

Clean and boil or steam two bunches of beets. Immerse at once in cold water. Rub off the skins and slice the beets into a saucpan. Put in two teaspoonfuls of butter, a half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Let stand in a warm place until the beets

The late Mrs. Gould, an enthusiastic believer in fresh air for her seven children, by no means avoided it herself. She was an enthusiastic motorist and preferred being at the wheel to being driven by a chauffeur, except of course, on such occasions as she was dressed for a formal party of some sort. She was photographed in this speedy looking roadster outside the Georgian Court estate, Lakewood, the residents of which all knew her and esteemed her highly for her democratic ways and her charm.

pared. Rich and heavy sauces delighted him, while Mamma's favorite dish was corned beef and cabbage with boiled potatoes. Therefore she had most of her food prepared by the second cook while the chef used all his arts to please Papa.

But to continue about the servants at No. 857 Fifth avenue. New York, the shortest time any important employee was with us was fifteen years and the longest about thirty-three. My parents certainly had the knack of keeping servants.

Mamma's maid, Margaret, was a very important personage in the household. She was so honest that together with Aunt Carrie and Langford she had full access to Mamma's million-dollar jewel collection. She dressed Mamma and waited up for her at night. But her sewing duties were not great, as we had a seamstress living with us who did dress making and sewing for Mamma and her children.

There were two parlormaid and three chambermaids, and these came under the direct supervision of Aunt Carrie. Four footmen and a pantryman aided Langford in attending to the family's needs.

THE GOULDS' FIFTH AVENUE HOUSE.

This residence at No. 857 Fifth avenue was the scene of many brilliant parties given by the late Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould. In her recollections, Mrs. Wainwright speaks of the great formality of the life there and how she preferred Georgian Court and Furlough Lodge in the Catskills.

These footmen had their hair powdered and wore maroon colored liveries with short black satin stockings with patent leather shoes adorned with large silver buckles. As there were four of these servants, their duties were not heavy. They opened the door, answered the telephone, waited on the table and carried trays upstairs.

The children had a special waitress in the nursery diningroom. An experienced electrician was also a member of our staff. Each daughter had her own personal maid, and the boys shared a valet, called James Sevier. This man was beloved by the whole family. He was so good and kind and devoted to the family. Whenever Mamma traveled she took him along as a courier. Three years ago, while serving dinner, he dropped dead of heart failure, just as Mamma dropped dead on the golf links six months later.

John Spensley, Papa's valet, had been with Papa ever since he was a boy of 14, when he came to be cabin boy on the yacht. Mme. Jourdain, Mamma's French companion, I have already spoken of, as I have of our governess.

Aunt Carrie, Mme. Jourdain, Margaret or Langford were constantly with Mamma. If by a miracle she was alone for a second, her cousin, Lillian Hamilton, for whom she did so much, would come in. We children always regretted we could not have more time alone with Mamma, as we all were devoted to her.

At Georgian Court the reins of authority were in the hands of two people. These were William Bishop, the Butler, and Theresa Bentley, the housekeeper—not the least important links in our different houses. When Mamma went abroad, she used to say:

"I always know the children are safe when they are with William and Theresa."

William's wife was formerly Marjorie's maid. They lived with their children in a charming little cottage on the estate. William taught Gloria and me to play golf, tennis and skis, in which three sports he equaled any professional. Theresa was a great help to Mamma in interior decorating, because she had a keen eye for color. She was very particular and could not bear to see the slightest article of dirt on picture or furniture. I never saw her around the house without a duster under her arm.

In summer a hundred men were employed in the greenhouses and on the grounds of Georgian Court. (Copyright, 1925.)

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

A FEMINE VERSION—of the pajama is fast replacing the "nightie" for those who seek novel and becoming garments in which to sleep. The jackets are low necked, lace trimmed and sleeveless, and have completely lost their resemblance to the masculine coat from which they originated. The trousers are most bewitching, being cut short enough to display a dimpled knee.

A Voluntary Noose is placed about the neck of the woman who adapts the picturesque and distinctly Parisian fashion of tying a three-inch width gros-grain or velvet ribbon, tightly around her throat, when in decollete gown.

Surprisingly Shallow—does not describe the minds of the wearers, but refers entirely to the extremely narrow panels of many of the latest Georgette or flat crepe frocks. Barely more than strips, they are either looped or swung loose in streamer effect.

Gone to Their Heads—the rage for large, colored pearls has so affected the average well-dressed woman that, not content with checker necklace, bracelet and earrings to match, she must need have a bi-color or tri-color pearl bar pin to trim her small, simpler tailored hat of felt, straw or satin.

ROLY-POLY MINCE PUDDING. Skin and chop a small piece of suet and add a pint of flour, a half pint of water and a saltspoonful of salt. Mix and roll the crust half-inch thick and spread with mince-meat. Roll, place in a floured binder, drop in boiling water and cook two hours. Serve with a good pudding sauce.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Change in Decorations.

When you need candleholders for the birthday cake, try using marshmallows instead. Arrange them in the frosting and stick a tiny candle in each one.

Bottle Some.

The mother who has several children usually has several washdays a week. A convenient tip for her is to make an abundance of starch on Monday, her real washday, and bottle some while hot for use during the week. It will prove a big time saver and convenience.

Just a Little Sugar.

A small spoonful of sugar added to the roast beef gravy, either in pot roast or oven roast, will give it a rich brown color as well as improve the flavor.

Will Be Done Sooner.

If you are in rather a hurry to cook fresh beans or peas, put a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in the pan with them. It will hasten the cooking process without injuring flavor or appearance.

FAMOUS WOMEN

ANCHITA.

ANCHITA was the wife of Alcibiades, King of Sparta, and was the mother of Pausanias, the hero of the battle of Plataea, but who afterward disgusted his countrymen by his foolish and arrogant conduct, whom he also agreed to betray to the Persian King on condition of receiving his daughter in marriage. His treason being discovered, he took refuge in the temple of Minerva, from which it was not lawful to force him. His pursuers therefore blocked up the door with stones, the first of which, in the second assault of a Spartan mother, was placed by Anchita. Pausanias died there at her age.

MARIAGE SCALES

Barbour

CHAPTER 5
NO HELP FROM DORIS

MARIANNA was dressed in a black gown, a simple, elegant affair, that fell away from her lovely white shoulders, revealing her slim, beautiful figure. With a high carved comb thrust in her shining hair, she looked so far apart that Doris could not read the other's thought—and was startled to find that it had been many months since she had entertained such a wish!

There was a rap on the door at her trembling "Come," Marianna hesitated. She, too, felt the constraint between them. They had not been alone together since that day in early spring when Doris had endeavored to smooth things out between her and Charles, and Marianna had been so petulant about it and sent Doris away.

Marianna wished she could recall the things she had said then. She needed Doris now. She wanted to confess the whole wretched business about her infatuation for Craig Cullum, and ask Doris what to do now that the affair had turned out so terribly.

"Doris," she asked suddenly, "have you ever been in love?"

Taken unawares and roused from thoughts that would about Craig Cullum, Doris started. A deep, beautiful rose flooded her face and she said carelessly enough:

"Oh, I suppose so. Who hasn't? Or rather, who hasn't believed he was at some time or other?"

She looked a bit queerly at Marianna.

"Why do you ask?"

"Oh, no reason at all, just idle curiosity," declared Marianna hastily. "Of course," she went on more slowly, "I think of love more than you do. I've always been romantic. I'm forever seeking a great passion."

"Charles?" began Doris.

"Oh, I adore Charles, of course," Marianna cut in. "But—but sometimes I wonder if there isn't something a wonderful, thrilling sort of emotion that makes one gloriously happy and madly wretched and fairly stops one's breath."

Doris rose from the couch abruptly.

"You've been reading too many novels," she said in a hard voice. "But, Doris," wailed Marianna, "I thought I'd found it and then—"

"Yes, I thought I'd found it once," Doris drew a painful breath. "I pray I never find it again!"

"Doris! You never told me!"

"Hurry up, dear. Your guests are waiting. We can talk about love—some other time."

She forced an impish grimace, smiled, and the door closed behind her.

Marianna sighed and went on with her dressing.

There was no help from Doris. She must cope with the Craig Cullum affair without assistance.

Again, she wished that Charles were there!

Safeguarding Your Skin Beauty

CREZIA BORI, The Famous Skin Doctor

olly classification, the answer to smooth beauty of one's skin is that it does not belong directly to your face. There are face sometimes shows fine bits of dry skin which seem to cling to it, you may be sure it is extra dry. The only skin becomes dry, and needs more frequent washing than does dry skin.

The best general rules for you will find this an excellent way to protect the beauty of your skin.

more cold cream and skin less soap. Oily skin, on the other hand, may need no skin cream at all to keep it smooth and wrinkled. Its owner can judge for herself by applying skin cream under the eyes and seeing whether it is quickly absorbed or not. Apply it lightly, and if the greasy look remains for long, she has too much.

If your skin is dry, it is likely to become more so in the winter season of the year. To correct this, excessive dryness I advise that you give up the use of soap for washing and rely on cold cream for cleansing your face thoroughly before you go to bed at night. In the morning wash it with warm water and rinse it with cold.

Now here is a protective measure for skin of either kind. I find useful in the Spring Summer season especially, when there is more wind and sun to molest the skin.

When You Serve—

Children's Bedtime Story

Old Mr. Toad Tries His Music Bag

The song that lives in from the heart; It seldom is a thing of art.

—Old Mother Nature.

Old Mr. Toad watched for a while, resting and enjoying the concert

OLD Mr. Toad was very tired when at last he reached the Smiling Pool. For such a slow traveler it was a long journey from Farmer Brown's garden way down there, a slow and a dangerous journey. So he was very, very weary as he reached the shore and then waded out until only his head was above water.

Right away his weariness left him. That cool water seemed to wash it all away just as it did the dust. Old Mr. Toad sighed happily. From all about him rose high, sweet voices, the voices of the Peepers, his small cousins, who should really be called Hylas.

One of them was clinging to a bit of stick right in front of Old Mr. Toad and he could see the little white bubble of a music bag in the little fellow's throat gleam in the moonlight as he sang.

Old Mr. Toad watched for a while, resting and enjoying the concert. Then he began to think about singing himself. "I wonder how that music bag of mine is!" said he to himself, there being no one else to talk to just then. "It is nearly a year since I last used it. In fact, I had almost forgotten that I possessed such a thing. My, my, that chorus certainly does need my voice. I do hope that music bag will work as it used to. There was no finer music in the Smiling Pool last year, if I do say so."

He drew in the soft night air through his nose down into his closed mouth and then forced it through two little slits in the floor of his mouth. At once that little music bag in his throat began to swell. It swelled out and out. Then Mr. Toad tried a tremulous note. It was rather weak, but it was clear and sweet. He sighed with pure happiness. He waited a few minutes and tried again. The music bag in his throat swelled larger than before, and this time the sweet, clear note was stronger.

"Well, well, Cousin, so you have arrived at last," said a voice just back of him. He turned to see Sticktoes the Tree Toad, who isn't a Toad at all, but a Frog. "We had begun to think that you were not coming. We need your Old Mr. Toad chuckled happily. "My music bag is as good as ever," said he. "It is just as good as ever. I wonder if Mrs. Toad has arrived yet, and if she is within hearing of my voice, I hope so. I don't care much, not so very much, what other people think of my voice if Mrs. Toad still likes it. I wonder where she spent the winter. I retired for the winter rather unexpectedly myself and didn't think of her at the time. It was most heedless of me. It was so. But then she probably didn't think of me, so I guess that evens things up. She always has said that I have the finest voice in the Smiling Pool. I often have said that Mrs. Toad has excellent taste, and I repeat it. Dear me, I wonder where she is."

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, the intrepid woman explorer, has just returned to London from a 1100-mile caravan trip through Persia, India and the wildest parts of Abyssinia.

Old Mr. Toad was quite willing to oblige. His music bag swelled larger than before and the music was louder, but none the less sweet.

Reassurance.

WHY doubt? For all around you tenderness is on each flower, each tree, and love is frequent as the wind's caress, as boundless as the sea. Be not afraid; remember all these years Love's hand has led you on. Be not afraid; though night was filled with tears, joy ever came with dawn. Do not despair; be sure each hope you nursed, each bliss so long denied, will bloom at length and every burning thirst will yet be satisfied. Upon this way all worldly wisdom fails, all pomp and splendors go, while faith alone for every need avails, such faith as children know. No longer let life like a menace stand, forbidding, grim and wild; wherever he may wander is Love's land to one at heart a child.

Eat Sea Food For Your Health

Scientists are just beginning to find that sea food should be used more generally in our diet. Fish from fresh-water lakes and rivers will not do. Sea food consisting of oysters, shrimp and salt-water fish contains iodine in large quantities. This iodine is beneficial to the body, particularly to the brain cells, and it has the further quality of curing or preventing the growth of goitre. Every family in America should serve on its table sea food of some sort two or three times a week.

Canned Oysters Are Always Available

Oysters are the richest of sea foods in iodine content. You can get them in cans all the year 'round. The canned oysters put up at Biloxi by the Biloxi Cannery come from sources that are uncontaminated and, in the process of packing, are heated above boiling point so that they cannot be anything but safe. The oysters packed at Biloxi are uniform in size and quality. You get full weight and a very fine quality of oyster. Canned oysters make delicious dishes. They can be used for stews, soups, stuffing for chickens, turkeys and other fowls; for making pan roasts, patties, pies, etc. Oysters packed at Biloxi are sold at first-class grocery stores throughout America. Get a can today and try the recipe given herewith.

Biloxi Cannery Biloxi, Miss.

Oyster Panned Roast
1 can of Oysters from Biloxi.
2 tablespoons butter.
Salt and pepper to taste.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
2 lemons and sprigs of parsley for garnish.

Drain the oysters, heat a deep frying pan, drop in two tablespoons of the butter. When melted, add the oysters, covering and shaking the pan constantly over a hot fire. Have ready a platter, well buttered and garnished with the sliced lemon and sprigs of parsley. When the oysters are brown, put quickly into platter, add the chopped parsley and pepper. Serve very hot.

French without a struggle

The French chef puts art into a saucepan and voila!—out pops a masterpiece. But the resourceful American housewife discovers magic in a catsup bottle and lo!—a delighted table.

With Snider's Tomato Catsup—used in sauces or just as plain catsup—she adds new fascination to the important business of eating—its rich and "homey" flavor brings new zest to the most critical appetites.
